A GLORIOUS VICTORY!

McKinley and Roosevelt Are Triumphantly Elected.

FOUR MORE YEARS OF PROSPERITY

McKinley Sure of 294 Electoral Votes to 153 for Bryan—McKinleys Majority Being 141—In 1896 it Was Only 95.

ALL DOUBTFUL STATES REPUBLICAN

Well done good and faithful servant, was the verdict rendered by the people of the United States at Tuesday's election in favor of William McKinley, of Ohio.

President McKinley was re-elected Tuesday by a larger majority of electoral votes than in 1896. Bryan gained heavily in New England and made substantial gains in other Eastern States, but not sufficient to gain a single electoral vote. On the other hand McKinley gained in the Middle West and probably on the Pacific slope, though definite returns have not been received from that region.

The States probably voting for McKinley are:

FOR MCKINLEY.

States.	Electoral vote.
California	9
Connecticut	6
Delaware	3
Illinois	24
Indiana	15
Kansas	10
Kentucky	13
Iowa	13
Maine	6
Maryland	8
Massachusetts	15
Michigan	14
Minnesota	9
New Hampshire	4
New Jersey	10
New York	36
North Dakota	3
Ohio	23
Oregon	4
Pennsylvania	32
Rhode Island	4
South Dakota	4
Vermont	4
Washington	4
West Virginia	6
Wisconsin	12
Wyoming	3
Total	294

This would leave for Bryan 153 votes, McKinley's majority being 141. McKinley's majority in 1896 was 95. The returns also indicate that the Senate will be Republican, although the Democrats gain two seats in Delaware. The House is safely Republican, and it is probable that the Republicans will have 210 members, a clear majority of 63. His electoral vote will likely reach 300 when all the official returns have been received. The returns came in slow last night, and were very meagre from many states. Pennsylvania is one of the states which makes a Republican gain in its congressional delegation.

Bryan went to bed early and refused to make a statement to the newspaper correspondents. His own precinct and state gave McKinley a majority.

KANSAS.

Kansas City—At 1 o'clock this morning Chairman Albaugh, of the Kansas state committee claims the state for McKinley by 30,000 plurality and for Stanley, for Governor, by 25,000. He claims the election of the entire Republican Congressional delegation and that the Legislature joint ballot will be Republican.

OHIO.

Columbus—Reports from different parts of Ohio indicate the largest vote ever cast, larger than either state committee expected, with McKinley gaining in rural districts and holding his own in the cities.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville—At 10 o'clock both Democratic and Republican committees claim the state though they furnish no figures in support of their claim.

MARYLAND.

Baltimore—McKinley has carried Maryland beyond the shadow of a doubt, the only question to be settled being the size of his majority. With practically complete returns from the city he has a majority here of about 6,500, while from the state, scattering returns indicate an additional surplus of 3,500, making his total majority in the state about 10,000. It is also certain that the Republicans have elected 4 out of 6 Congressmen, while the remaining two will probably be Democratic, although later returns may change this outlook.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Boston—President McKinley has carried Massachusetts by about 70,000 plurality, a reduction of nearly 100,000 from that of 4 years ago. The Republicans have elected 10 and possibly 11 of the Congressmen.

PENNSYLVANIA.

Philadelphia—Estimates from one-half of the counties in Pennsylvania indicate a plurality for McKinley of over 200,000.

NEW YORK STATE

The indications are that President McKinley has carried New York state by a majority over Bryan of about 150,000.

NEW JERSEY.

Trenton—Incomplete returns from different parts of the state indicate that New Jersey has been carried for McKinley and Roosevelt by more than 50,000.

INDIANA

Indianapolis—Thirty precincts out of 3302 in Indiana give McKinley 2482; Bryan, 2580. Same in 1896 gave McKinley, 2345; Bryan, 2580. Net Republican gain, 120.

MISSISSIPPI

Jackson—The returns from the interior counties are slow in arriving, but reports so far are to the effect that the election was quiet and orderly throughout the State. Indications are that the total vote polled will be about 70,000.

NEBRASKA

Omaha—The returns from the State are coming in slow. These indicate an apparent plurality of from 2000 to 4000 in the State for McKinley.

TEXAS.

Houston.—Bryan's majority in the state will be over 175,000.

ILLINOIS,

Chicago.—Chairman Rowe, of the Republican State Committee, claimed that Illinois had been carried by McKinley by at least 100,000.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

Concord.—21 towns and wards gives Bryan 1,578, McKinley 2,378. Same places in 1896—Bryan 824, McKinley 2,459.

NEVADA.

The election passed off quietly throughout Nevada. Present indications point to Bryan's majority as anywhere between 500 and 1,000.

NORTH CAROLINA.

The election in North Carolina was very quiet. Returns indicate that Bryan's majority will not be less than 30,000.

VIRGINIA.

Virginia is safe for Bryan by a good majority.

UTAH.

Salt Lake, Utah.—Seven districts in Salt Lake and county show a Republican gain of 305.

GEORGIA.

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 6—The Constitution estimates Bryan's majority in Georgia at 40,000. One or two counties went for McKinley.

MAINE.

Portland, Me.—One hundred and fifty towns in Maine give McKinley 31 694, Bryan 18,952; McKinley's plurality, 12,742.

MICHIGAN.

Detroit, Mich.—President McKinley has carried Michigan beyond doubt. Conservative estimates place his majority at 65,000.

FRIGHTENED GIRL TO DEATH.

Jokers Hung an Artificial Skelton in Her Path.

Rochester, N. Y. Nov. 5.—An artificial skelton frightened Mary Oldfield, of Karrdale, to death last Wednesday night. Miss Oldfield, accompanied by two equally timid friends, were returning from a Hallow E'en party, where they had listened to gruesome stories of ghosts and skeletons. When about to enter the woods which separated their home from Karrdale village, a rattling of bones was heard overhead, and looking up the trio were overcome with terror to see a skelton of gigantic proportions sweeping down on them from above.

With a cry of terror, Mary dropped in her tracks, dead. Her two companions made their escape. A searching party found the body of Miss Oldfield, also a wire leading from the ground to a tree top, which was attached by a pulley to a skeleton made of the bones of domestic animals.

McKinley's Big Vote.

New York, Nov. 7, 2 a. m.—Our returns at Republican headquarters up to this hour, the Republican national committee claim to have elected McKinley and Roosevelt by an electoral vote of 284, with the probability of 21 votes in addition, making a total of 305. The 21 votes consist of the 13 votes in Kentucky and 8 in Nebraska.

The states we surely claim for McKinley and Roosevelt are California, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

Hall Elected.

Later—Unofficial returns from the 28th Congressional district show the election of J. K. P. Hall, of Elk county, over Col. A. A. Clearwater, of Wilcox, by 85 majority.

—The ladies of the Lutheran church will hold a needle work bazaar in the W. C. T. U. rooms commencing this afternoon and continuing tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening. Be sure and attend if you desire to see a variety of beautiful articles, dolls and candies. Oysters in every style will be served from 5 to 10 p. m., and ice cream and cake.

GOOD OLD CENTRE COUNTY

President McKinley Sweeps It by Safe Majority.

ALLISON AND THOMPSON ELECTED

Republicans Get Together and the Result is a Big Victory—Both Members of the Legislature are Ours but Congress is Close.

CHAIRMAN REEDER CONGRATULATED

Good old Centre county has come to the front nobly. Party harmony prevailed and the result has been that the county is once again redeemed from the hands of Democracy. Centre county will give McKinley and Roosevelt a majority of over 300 while both Allison and Thompson, R., are elected to the Legislature over Wetzel and Kepler by majorities of about 75.

The day was an ideal one for holding an election and in view of the lateness of the season is something remarkable. The result was that an unusually large vote was polled.

The returns from the Congressional district indicate the election of J. K. P. Hall, of Elk county, for Congress by a majority of about 1000. Hall's majority in Centre over Clearwater is about 100. Hall carried Elk, Clarion and Centre while Clearwater carried Forest and Clearfield.

A heavy vote was polled in the boro and McKinley and the whole Republican ticket carried the town.

Through some error of the commissioners in sending out instructions it will be impossible to get the full official returns from the county until after the official count by the returning board which meets Thursday at 12 o'clock. The official returns as far as received are published in another part of this paper.

WHEN I WAS A BOY.

Up in the attic where I slept
When I was a boy—a little boy!
In through the lattice the moonlight crept,
Bringing a tide of dreams that swept
Over the low red trundle bed,
Bathing the tangled curly head,
While moonbeams played at hide and seek
With the dimples on each sun-browned cheek—
When I was a boy—a little boy!

And, oh, the dreams, the dreams I dreamed
When I was a boy—a little boy!
For the grace that through the lattice streamed.
Over my folded eyelids seemed
To have the gift of prophecy.
And to bring me glimpses of times to be
Where manhood's clarion seemed to call,
When I was a boy—a little boy.

I'd like to sleep where I used to sleep
When I was a boy—a little boy
For in at the lattice the moon would peep,
Bringing her tides of dreams to sweep
The crosses and griefs of the years away
From the heart that is weary and faint today,
And those dreams should give me back again
The peace I have never known since then—
When I was a boy—a little boy!

Forgot to Engage a Doorkeeper.

Thos. E. Watson, who was the candidate for vice president on the Populist ticket in 1896, is still before the public, but as a historian instead of a politician, relates the Saturday Evening Post. Since the campaign of 1896 Mr. Watson has devoted most of his time to his law practice and to literary work. He has a large plantation, which also claims a portion of his attention. His home life, at the little town of Thomson, Ga., is quiet and happy.

A few years ago Mr. Watson invited "Bill Arp," Major Charles H. Smith, to lecture in his town. Major Smith does not make a business of lecturing, but he is none the less an attractive and entertaining speaker. All the countryside turned out to hear "Bill Arp," and Mrs. Watson was very busy making arrangements. Managing a lecture was new to Mr. Watson, and he consulted Major Smith concerning all the details, and was anxious that he should not forget anything. Everything pointed to success.

The house was filled and the lecture was well received. But the people kept their seats, and showed no inclination to disperse. Finally, when the silence began to grow ominous, the audience began to leave in groups, with an expression of querulous amusement on their faces.

Watson was a puzzled witness to this proceeding. Turning to Major Smith, he asked in a hoarse whisper: "Major, did I forget anything?"

"Yes, you forgot something, Tom," said a man who had lingered in the hall. "You forgot to provide a doorkeeper, and not one of these people paid any admission."

Forbidden on Bills of Fare.

Hereafter at hotels and restaurants all over Pennsylvania, no matter whether in county, city, town, village or hamlet, the guests will no longer be given quail, wild turkey, venison, woodcock or pheasant to eat, and if it is on the menu the proprietor of the hotel or restaurant is liable to a fine of from $25 to $100. It is the law that the game mentioned cannot be sold in Pennsylvania, they cannot be killed for sale, and even if given to a hotel man or restaurant proprietor, if he serves them as a part of a meal for which he takes money, he is liable to arrest and punishment. This seems like a very hard law, but the state game commission says that as it is the law it will be enforced, and that its enforcement is necessary in order to preserve the game in the state, and that when once more game becomes plentiful, when men no longer shoot to sell it, there will be immediate repeal. The proposition is a hard one for the hotel men and others who serve game, but there is no getting away from it.

Like Tearing the Heart Strings.

"It is not within the conception of man to measure my great sufferings from heart disease. For years I endured almost constant cutting and tearing pains about my heart, and many a time would have welcomed death. Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart has worked a veritable miracle." Thos. Hicks, Perth, Ont.—30.

"Do you use a pony at college?" we asked of an undergraduate.

"Oh, no," replied the honest fellow, looking at us with his manly brown eyes. "Nowadays we use horseless aids exclusively."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

Attacked by Three Tramps.

George Wilson, while riding on a freight train on the Philadelphia and Reading road between Williamsport and Montoursville, was beaten and robbed by three tramps Saturday night. He was compelled to disrobe, after which he was thrown from the train. He was found bruised, cut and dazed, lying along the track. Not far away were a ragged coat and a pair of old trousers, which the tramps had tossed after him. No trace of his assailants has been found.

Distinguished Pennsylvanian Dead.

Dr. Louis W. Read, of Norristown, aged 72 years, died suddenly at his home in that city on Thursday of heart trouble. Dr. Read was for 25 years Surgeon General of the National Guard of Penna. About a year ago he was removed by Gov. Stone. He served as a surgeon during the Crimean war in the Russian service and at Sebastopol during its siege by the allied forces.

Made Young Again.

"One of Dr. King's New Life Pills each night for two weeks has put me in my 'teens' again" writes D. H. Turner, of Dempseytown, Pa. They're the best in the world for liver, stomach and bowels. Purely vegetable. Never gripe. Only 25c at F. Potts Green's drug store.

An Inhuman Wretch.

Last Thursday morning when Clayton Sprankle, son of George Sprankle, who lives near Trade City, went to the barn, he observed that the feed box connected with the stall in which he keeps his horse, was covered with blood. Upon investigation he found that the horse's tongue had been cut off, or nearly so, merely hanging by a shred of skin. The tongue had been drawn out and cut off at the root. It was put in place and sewed on and some hopes are entertained that it will unite.

This diabolical business of mutilating horses has been going on in northern Indiana county for the past seven or eight years. It has probably all been done by the same person, for it would seem like a libel on the human race to assume that there is more than one person on earth who would find pleasure in the agony of dumb animals. Evidently he is a moral and intellectual monstrosity. In spite of his numerous victims, however, he has successfully evaded detection, which would indicate that it is done by a Dr. Jekyl and Mr. Hyde sort of a demon.—Punxsutawney Spirit.

Forgot to Count Them.

Great men often have only the quality of absentmindedness but a sort of simplicity of intelligence which might be called foolishness in people known to be less gifted than they. Sir William Vernon Harcourt, who was chancellor of the exchequer in the late liberal ministry in England, and who is beyond question a highly gifted man and able statesman, tells a story of this kind of simplicity at his own expense.

He had suspected for some time that a man servant in his employ had been stealing money from him. At last he resolved to set a trap for the man. Taking a handful of gold coins; he laid them down on his writing desk and went out. Presently he sent his servant to the room to fetch some article. When John had returned he went promptly to his room to see if the coins had been touched.

On the table, in the place where he had left them, were gold coins. But were there as many as he had left? He did not know, for he had neglected to count them before he laid them down.

"By this incident you see," said Sir William, in telling the story, "that I was born to be chancellor of the exchequer!"—Youth's Companion.

OLD PEOPLE

Have a charm of their own when they are not weak and feeble, but hale and hearty, enjoying the sports and pleasures of youth though they cannot participate in them. The whole secret of a sturdy old age is this: Keep the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in perfect order. The young man who does not think of his stomach will be made to think of it as he grows old. It is the "weak" stomach, incapable of supplying the adequate nutrition for the body, which causes the weakness and feebleness of old age.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It makes the "weak" stomach strong, and so enables the body to be fully nourished and strengthened by the food which is eaten.

"I suffered for six years with constipation and indigestion, during which time I employed several physicians, but they could not reach my case," writes Mr. G. Popplewell, of Eureka Springs, Carroll Co., Ark. "I felt that there was no help for me, could not retain food on my stomach; had vertigo and would fall helpless to the floor. Two years ago I commenced taking Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and little 'Pellets,' and improved from the start. After taking twelve bottles of the 'Discovery' I was able to do light work, and have been improving ever since. I am now in good health for one of my age—60 years. I owe it all to Dr. Pierce's medicines."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MET IN CALIFORNIA.

Four Survivors of the One Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania Regiment.

While the survivors of the One Hundred and Tenth Pennsylvania regiment were in reunion at Bellefonte last week they received the following telegram from comrades far distant, but at heart with them:

"Pasadena, Cal., Oct. 30.—As a remnant in California, of our glorious old regiment we are met in reunion. Consider us with you. Greeting and good wishes to all.—Charles Copelin, D. C. Lane, George B. Copelin, John McDonald."

There are five of the survivors of the regiment residing near Pasadena, in California, and the gathering of four of them at the home of Captain Copelin on the same day that the regimental association met at Bellefonte was a hearty evidence of their loyalty to their comrades.

Pretty If True.

While a party of men were at work on the Pennsylvania railroad of Pomeroy, last Friday, a large earthen jar of gold coin was earthened, and for a time the wildest excitement prevailed among the men who fell over top of one another in their efforts to secure the shining pieces. Changes are being made in the line of the railroad at Pomeroy, and one of the large steam shovels raises the earth from the bank and deposits it in gondola cars to be hauled away. The huge shovel had scraped up the stump of a tree which was placed on the car. The shovel was then swung back to scoop dirt from where the stump stood. In swinging the shovel to the car the scoop came in contact with the side of the car and a huge earthen vessel fell from the scoop to the railroad track and was broken to pieces. The workingmen heard the crash and upon looking around saw a pile of round, glittering pieces of metal on the track. There was a grand rush and soon men were falling over top of each other in their eagerness to get some of the metal, which proved to be Spanish gold coin. Some of the men secured as much as $100 in gold pieces. The report of the finding of the money spread very rapidly and in a short time a number of people were on the scene and every foot of earth within a mile was turned by the throng, with the expectation of finding more gold.—Harrisburg Star-Independent.

Editor Sees Wonders.

In Bad Taste

A journal devoted to the interests of funeral directors contains the following sensible paragraph: "And let me not forget to say that the custom of inserting in the papers 'a card of thanks' by the bereaved is abominable. It is wretched taste and should be abolished. Directors may work to this end by timely advice when the matter is proposed to them. If it is desired to thank lodges or societies let it be done by letter. Neighbors and friends do not expect thanks. They minister to the bereft through sympathy, kindness and love."

Brave Explorers

Like Stanley and Livingstone, found it harder to overcome malaria, fever and ague, and typhoid disease germs than savage cannibals; but thousands have found that Electric Bitters is a wonderful cure for all malarial diseases. If you have chills with fever, aches in back of neck and head, and tired, worn out feeling, a trial will convince you of their merit. W. A. Null, of Webb, Ill., writes: "My children suffered for more than a year with chills and fever; then two bottles of Electric Bitters cured them." Only 50 cents. Try them. Guaranteed Sold by F. Potts Green, druggist.

A Singular Occurrence.

A Clearfield county farmer named Lew Walker, who lives between Gypsy and Nashville, buried 16 bushels of potatoes, covering them with straw and earth. On Saturday morning Mr. Walker saw smoke rising from the potato pit. He pulled some dirt off the straw and the flames shot up, and burned the straw. Roasted potatoes were plenty around there for a while. It is supposed it was caused by spontaneous combustion.

One Short Puff Clears the Head.

Does your head ache? Have you pains over your eyes? Is the breath offensive? These are certain symptoms of Catarrh. Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal powder will cure most stubborn cases in a marvelously short time. If you've had catarrh a week it's a sure cure. If it's of fifty years' standing it's just as effective. 50 cents—29. Sold by F. P. Green.

Will Collect Statistics.

The Clinton county Sunday school committee has engaged the Rev. R. Crittenden, of Bellefonte, for more than 30 years engaged in this work in Northern Central Penna. to collect facts of interest showing the Sunday school condition of the county. In each locality visited he will conduct a gospel song service with the preaching of a short gospel sermon. An offering will be taken in connection with the service to assist in defraying the necessary expenses. When the work is completed a report of the facts will be duly published in the papers of the county. The committee bespeaks for Mr. Crittenden the cordial welcome of all the Sunday schools and churches and their hearty co-operation in the work he is doing.—Lock Haven Express.

William K. Vanderbilt's Purchase.

It is reported that W. K. Vanderbilt has purchased two large stocks of Pennsylvania railroad shares in England. The duke of Devonshire and the duke of Portland have sold their shares to Mr. Vanderbilt, it is said. Mr. Vanderbilt has for some time been buying Pennsylvania shares in the open market, and now he is the largest individual shareholder in the Pennsylvania company.

Bad Elephant Shot.

Romeo, the monster elephant of the Ringling Bros. Circus, was shot and killed Tuesday at Wichita Falls, Tex., because he acted ugly and attempted to kill his keeper while being watered. Romeo had a record of killing three keepers in 15 years.

It's Easy To Take

Thin, pale, anæmic girls need a fatty food to enrich their blood, give color to their cheeks and restore their health and strength. It is safe to say that they nearly all reject fat with their food.

SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES OF LIME & SODA

is exactly what they require; it not only gives them the important element (cod-liver oil) in a palatable and easily digested form, but also the hypophosphites which are so valuable in nervous disorders that usually accompany anæmia.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is a fatty food that is more easily digested than any other form of fat. A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health. You can get it in this way.

We have known persons to gain a pound a day while taking it.

Yukon Indians Die Off.

SEATTLE, Wash., October 28.—Rev. Father John B. Rene, in charge of the Roman Catholic mission on the Yukon, has arrived at Dawson with a terrible story of the sufferings of the natives in that valley from an epidemic from a mysterious disease resembling a combination of pneumonia, measles and typhoid fever. At Holy Cross mission, 60 out of 150 Indians died in less than two months.

Famine now threatens, as the natives have not been able to lay up supplies of fish and game for the winter. The plague has been general all along the river and along the coast of Behring sea, and thousands of natives have died and many more will die from the disease itself or starvation following in its train.

Recommends it to Trainmen.

G. H. Hausan, Lima, O., Engineer L. E. & W. R. R., writes: "I have been troubled a great deal with backache. I was induced to try Foley's Kidney Cure, and one bottle entirely relieved me. I gladly recommend it to anyone, especially my friends among the trainmen, who are usually similarly afflicted." All druggists.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

From the Chicago News.

An American imperialist—Old King Coal.

An average man's second thoughts are the wisest.

If you are in a hurry avoid the train of thought.

A bale full of cotton is certainly a baleful blessing.

If you have a happy home keep it so; if not, make it so.

The plain, unvarnished truth is better than questionable rhetoric.

Spend less time in doing penance and more in improving your conduct.

Business Outlook.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—R. G. Dun & Co's Weekly Review of Trade today will say:

Some evidence appears of willingness to take speculative chances in the movement of a few standard goods, notably of iron and steel. The actual resumption of operations in the anthracite coal fields has added largely to the working force, and the closing down of a few small steel plants is only in the nature of concentrating operations at more advantageous points and has not much reduced the number of men employed.

Encouraging signs multiply in the iron industry. Strength in Bessemer and recent increase in activity of finished forms has at last effected the market for raw material. Improvement in domestic buying of pig is more noticeable because of decrease in exports. Structural shapes continue in urgent request, plates advancing with active demand from ship builders, and with talk of a pool to sustain the price. Bar iron would sell readily at former prices, but holders grow stubborn. Reports are current that many concerns have contracted for machine shops in Bremen and numerous bridges abroad, including some in Africa. Billets at Philadelphia cost $20, which does not look like reduction in steel rails. Business in these lines decided not to wait for them to place contracts.

Some full forces are employed at New England shoe shops and heavy orders insure brisk work for the rest of the year. Prices have not advanced for the finished articles with leather and hides. Textile operations are more vigorous, sales of wool at the 3 chief eastern markets exceeding all recent records. Cotton has recovered a little of the recent sharp decline.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Bradstreet's today will say:

Unreasonably warm weather continues the leading directly unfavorable feature of distributive trade because of the check given to retail distribution and therefore to re-order business in most lines of dry goods, wearing apparel and shoes. Conservatism, in view of the near approach of the presidential election, is undoubtedly an element exercising considerable influence, particularly in stock speculation; but a conspicuous exception to this is found in the re-awakening of demand and the advances in prices shown in the iron trade in widely separated sections. This is really one of the most important developments of the week and is taken as indicating not only that confidence in election results is felt, but that consumers stocks are down to a minimum.

A distinct and marked improvement in the demand for both crude and finished iron and steel is noted. From Chicago, Pittsburg, Birmingham and Philadelphia come confirmations of the better inquiry for pig iron at a slight advance, except in the case of the southern produce. This movement is regarded as significant, in view of the railroad cutting of prices by the English and Scotch makers. Actual consumptive needs appear to be near the bottom of the demand. Western railroads will not pay $26 per ton for rails; Chicago advices are that 300,000 tons have been bought with this account within the past ten days. Plates are higher on the week and bars are also firmer, with the mills reported crowded with orders. Steel billets are in better call and also higher, although the manufacturers are expected to let that market remain an open one.

A Monument to Annie Laurie.

A movement is on foot to erect a tombstone over the grave of Annie Laurie. Many people are under the delusion that Annie Laurie was merely the figment of the poet's brain, but this was not so. She was the daughter of Sir Robert Laurie, and was born in Maxwelton house, which stands on the "braes" immortalized in the song. Her birth is thus set down In the Barjorg MS: "At the pleasure of Almighty God, my daughter, Annie Laurie, was born upon the 16th day of December, 1682 years, about 6 o'clock in the morning, and was baptized by Mr. George, minister of Glencairn."

Maxwelton house is still full of memories of this winsome girl, and in the long drawing room there still hangs her portrait. Her lover and the author of the original song was young Douglass of Fingland, but in the sequel she gave her hand to a prosaic country laird, her cousin, Mr. Alexander Ferguson. They lived at Craigdarroch house, five miles from Maxwelton, and when she died Annie was buried in the beautiful glen of the Cairn.—Manchester Guardian.

—J. W. Bryan, of Lowder, Ills., writes: "My little boy was very low with pneumonia. Unknown to the doctor we gave him Foley's Honey and Tar. The result was magical and puzzled the doctor, as it immediately stopped the racking cough and he quickly recovered." All druggists.

—D. H. Ruhl, of Spring Mills, well known in all parts of Centre county, is seriously afflicted. Quite recently his tongue was paralyzed, rendering him speechless. He has been failing for more than a year.

Over-Work Weakens Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers, they filter out the waste or impurities in the blood.

If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or unsteady heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble, because the heart is over-working in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

THE population of the United States is officially stated at about 76,300,000 against 63,100 000 in 1890, an actual increase of 13,200,000, and an increase of about 20 per cent. This will work changes in the Congressional representation of a good many States, even if the South is allowed to retain her fraudulent advantage based on the suppressed negro vote.

A Hunter Shot and Killed.

CLEARFIELD, Pa., Nov. 3.—While a party of young men from Clearfield were hunting on the mountain near here yesterday Paul McCoole was accidentally shot and killed by Jerry Hockman. The body was brought here and Hockman was placed in custody, pending the coroner's inquest, which will be held today.

Highest Point in the State.

E. Matley, a civil engineer in the employ of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and who has charge of the extension of the Crabtree and Herminie branches of the Pennsy, in Westmoreland county, has made the discovery that Big Bald Knob, in the Allegheny mountain, on the line between Somerset and Bedford counties, is the most elevated point in Pennsylvania. Big Bald Knob is 3,000.7 feet above sea level, and is about eight miles from the Cambria county line. Until Mr. Matley's recent survey, whereby he proved the height of Big Bald Knob, the highest point in Pennsylvania was near Luthersburg, Clearfield county, where a peak reaches the elevation of 2,708 feet.

Mr. Matley has furnished his surveys and calculations to the government engineers having in charge the new geological survey of the state, and the latter have accepted Big Bald Knob as the culminating point of Pennsylvania.

Nothing New in Fashions.

Every now and then it crops out that what is considered original by the uninformed in the realm of fashion as a freak or novelty prevailed years and years before the present wearers of the same were born. So that in the adoption of some new style of dress we are simply aping the great grandmother whom we look upon as a quaint old body that innocently wore some outlandish thing and did not know how queer it made her look. Apropos we find in a Baltimore paper of 1786 (mark the date) a reference to a silly custom now prevailing among ladies, called "padding the hips." We quote: "Will the ladies draw in their hornworks like the snail because they are trod upon by the newspaper critics? Surely not. Ladies always did in spite of persecution exercise their taste and fancy in the ornaments of their persons, and we prophecy that they always will." Let them dress as they please, with rumps or without them, in the Traitor's bonnet or in the Margery cap, whatever they do will attract the young and gallant—and for whom else do they dress at all?

Cutting Steel With Hot Tools.

From Cassier's Magazine.

In the large machine shops of the Bethlehem Steel company, at Bethlehem, Pa., within about a year and a half the output of all the machine tools has been almost quadrupled by the use of what is known as the Taylor-White process of tool-steel treatment, devised by Messrs. F. W. Taylor and Maunsel White and owned by the Bethlehem company. What the process consists of is not told beyond this: That it embraces the use of a steel of special composition and apparatus also for heating the tool to uniform and readily-controlled temperatures.

The amount of metal cut by a tool is clearly indicative of its working value, and as to this the Bethlehem shop records show that since the tests were commenced, about eighteen months ago, the weight of metal removed per hour per tool increased from 31.18 to 173.3 pounds, representing a gain of about 340 per cent. Within that time the main lines of shop shafting have been speeded up from ninety to 250 revolutions a minute, and further changes have been made in countershafts to speed up individual machines. The cutting speeds of the tools have been increased 183 per cent., the depth of cut 30 per cent., and the feeds 24 per cent. These figures speak for themselves.

The underlying virtue of the Taylor-White process is that it gives to the steel the exceptional property of retaining a high degree of hardness even when heated to a visible red heat, and it is thus possible with one of these tools to cut steel at a speed so great as to heat up the point of the tool to redness and have it continue to cut for several minutes at this speed and still leave a comparatively smooth finish on the work. But cutting metal in a lathe with a tool at red heat is something which the skeptic must see in order to believe. Opportunity for this, however, has been given, and is daily available at the Bethlehem works.

Typhoid Fever and Drinking Water.

There is nothing more definitely settled in sanitary science than the fact that the propagation of typhoid fever is due to a specific germ which most frequently enters the system by means of the drinking water. Ordinary wells are particularly exposed to such contamination in consequence of the usual defective soil drainage in their vicinity.

All this is so well known that it is difficult to understand why a common water supply of a given and infected community is not cut off as soon as the initiative cases occur. This, in fact, is one of the main reasons why infectious diseases are reported to health boards and why the latter are granted the requisite powers to control epidemics. With our present knowledge of the dangers of these wells we must speedily come to the conclusion that the more modern and efficient water systems must make them unnecessary. The house faucet must take the place of the "old oaken bucket" and poetical sentiment must give way to common sense. It is not too much to predict that if all the old wells were closed up the cases of fever would be reduced fully 50 per cent. New York Herald.

VICTORY REWARDED A UNITED EFFORT.

The Republicans of Centre county achieved a splendid victory at the polls Tuesday. We refrain from an extended editorial comment in this issue in order to give to our readers a full account of the election throughout the country. This we have done to the extent of our information to the hour of going to press. The result of the election in Centre county, in which the entire ticket was carried by safe majorities, shows what the Republican party can do as a united force. The victory on Tuesday foreshadows future success. The Republican vote was a vote for peace and harmony and a glorious result rewarded the effort to eliminate factionalism and restore concord. We got together. Let us stay together.

Health and Beauty.

A Russian physician holds that the electric light is the least injurious to the eyes and that candle light is the most harmful. He states that the oftener the lids are closed the greater the fatigue and consequent injury. As a result of his experiments he compiled the following table showing the number of times a minute the lids were closed with different illuminations: Candle light, 6, 4, 5; gas, 2 3-5; sun, 2, 1-5; electric, 1, 4-5.

To keep the hands nice, cleanliness is the first essential and, therefore, when rough work has to be done it is well, if possible, to put on gloves. Prevention is better than cure, and as nothing spoils the hands like getting them grimed it should be avoided as far as possible. When this occurs, however, don't go to work upon them with soap and a brush. Instead, take some vaseline or oil and rub it into the hands and then wash them thoroughly with a good toilet soap and a piece of flannel in warm water. The flannel will soon clean them and without injuring the skin in any way. It is far better than a nail brush for ordinary use and if used regularly a nail brush will be found almost, if not entirely, superfluous.

Those who are sedentary, studious, debilitated and sickly are, with very few exceptions, those who are the earliest visited with gray hair. The agricultural laborer, the seaman and all whose employment consists of or involves exercise in the open air and whose diet is necessarily simple, are those whose hair latest affords signs that the last process has commenced that the fluids have begun to be absorbed, the textures to dry up and become withered. All whose employment renders much sitting necessary and little or no exercise possible; all who, from whatever cause, have local determination of blood, particularly if toward the head, are the persons most liable to carry gray hairs. It is well known that mental emotions and violent passions have in a night made the hair gray. Instances of this are numerous. They are in the same way to be understood and explained. They are owing to the increased determination of blood, stimulating the absorbents into preternatural activity and causing them to take up the coloring matter of the hair.

A Rush for the Pearl Beds.

Prairie Du Chien, Wis., Nov. 6.—Discovery of pearls in the Upper Mississippi river has caused a tremendous rush to the clam beds. Houseboats are crowding the river and more than a thousand persons are encamped along the river bank. The finding of a few thousand dollars worth of pearls by the diggers has started a raid on the river. One of the pearls recently found, the Allen pearl, weighed 100 grains, and is said to be the largest perfect pearl yet taken from the river. It was purchased by Wm. Moore, of Comanche, Ia., who paid $3,000 for it.

CONGRESSIONAL APPORTIONMENT ON THE CENSUS OF 1900.

The Census office has announced the total population of the United States to be 76,300,000 in round numbers, an increase of about 20 per cent. since 1890. A previous bulletin had placed the increase in 159 cities, having over 25,000 each, at about 32.5 per cent. and a brief calculation shows that the increase in the balance of the country was only about 15 per cent. Thus it seems that the drift to the cities has not been arrested to anything like the extent that some people believed. Aside from this, the chief interest attaching to the detailed statement is found in the new apportionment for the National House of Representatives that must be made under it.

Of course, until Congress meets and takes up this subject it is impossible to say what changes the new census figures will make. Congress in its wisdom may keep the total membership of the House as it is, or may increase it indefinitely, or may even reduce it, and no man can foretell what it will do. The chances are, however, that it will increase it slightly, perhaps about thirty members. Such an increase would avert the necessity of decreasing the representation of any state.

The method of making the apportionment is somewhat peculiar, Congress first deciding how many members it will have, dividing this number into the population of the state, the quotient being the "basis of representation." This, when divided into the individual population of the various states gives the number of representatives to which each state is entitled. If the sum of these does not foot up the total membership allowed, extra members are given to the states having the largest fractions remaining. If the "thirty additional system" is adopted, the following gains will be made: New York 3, Pennsylvania 2, Illinois 3, Missouri 1, Texas 3, Massachusetts 1, Wisconsin 1, North Carolina 1, New Jersey 2, Minnesota 2, Mississippi 1, California 1. Louisiana 1, Arkansas 1, West Virginia 1, Connecticut 1, Colorado 1, Florida 1, Washington 1, North Dakota 1. By this redistribution the New England states would gain 2, the eastern states 7, the southern states 10, the middle west states 8, the far west states 3. States ordinarily classified as Republican would gain 14, states classified as Democratic would gain 10. The close and doubtful states would gain 6.

The real surprises in these figures are the large gains in the south, which are larger than in any other section. Under this apportionment the "solid south" would have 130 electoral votes, an even greater proportion of the total electoral vote than at present—that is provided Congress continues to ignore the provision of the Constitution that the representation of states disfranchising their negroes shall be correspondingly reduced. Louisiana, Mississippi and North Carolina, all of which secure an increase, all disfranchise negro voters by transparent artifices. A reduction in the representation of these states, if decided upon will effect the whole scheme of appointment.

The South has now about 39 Representatives on the basis of its colored population. The new census probably entitles this population to at least 45 representatives. If this is reduced to the plain mandate of the Constitution it may be unnecessary to increase the total membership of the House and at the same time give those states whose population has grown their due increase of seats in Congress.

In any event the country will not consent to have the present unjust and illegal method of apportionment prolonged and the Southern States allowed an undue share of power in shaping legislation and in electing Presidents. Public opinion demands a prompt and radical change and an apportionment is accord with the Constitution.

Millions of Pupils.

The magnitude of the educational system of the country is set forth in the annual report of the United States Commissioner of Education. It embraces the fiscal year of 1898-99 and shows that on July 1 of the latter year the grand total of persons then beneficiaries in the elementary, secondary and higher schools, both public and private, reached the astonishing number of 16,738,362. In other words, one-fifth of the population of the country was receiving the benefit of an education. While it is a natural inference, it is wrong to assume that this mighty army of seekers after knowledge it composed of minors. Indeed, it is probable that a close canvass will disclose, especially in the public schools, a large percentage of adults, who having spent their youth in the days when a free education was not so easily obtainable, are now availing themselves of the night sessions held in many of the large cities. There are reasons for believing that few, if any other, countries can produce a record of this sort, with the additional system of free libraries prevailing generally for those who are endeavoring to expand their store of information.

With all these facilities to be had free, the percentage of illiteracy in the United States is rapidly decreasing and is confined largely to the children of foreigners who were deprived of such advantages at home. But these, too, are picking up knowledge and being absorbed in the great class of educated.

How They Elect in France.

In France the agony of a general election is not unduly prolonged. The polling in every constituency takes place on the same day—a Sunday—and though owing to the existence of the second ballot all the individual results are not immediately known, a general idea of the outcome of the contest is at once secured.

No political aspirant can take his seat in Parliament unless he has secured an actual majority of the votes recorded. The working of the second ballot, which secures this result, is simplicity itself.

Three candidates put up for a constituency—Bonheval (Royalist), Durand (Republican), and Dupont (Socialist). Bonheval secures 3,000 votes, Durand 2,800 and Dupont 1,900. In England in similar circumstances Bonneval, although he had obtained only 3,000 of the 7,770 votes polled, would be elected; in France a second ballot is taken, and Durand receiving most of the votes given in the first instance to Dupont, who withdraws, is returned at the head of the poll.

There may be half a dozen candidates for a seat; but in practice it works out that those who are in a hopeless minority at the first ballot withdraw and leave the final fight to the two who have secured the largest number of votes. In some cases the candidates withdrawing recommend their supporters to vote for one of the two who remain; in others they either are silent or suggest that their followers should abstain from any further participation in the combat.—London Daily Mail.

—The extra dividend of one per cent. on Pennsylvania Railroad stocks is a token of the excellent management of the railroad. The affairs of the company are conservatively managed, and the increased dividend does not mean the least sacrifice of means for maintenance or betterment. It means only that the company has earned enough money to justify this increased division of profits among the stockholders.

The Presidency and the G. A. R.

The chances are that this election offered the last opportunity to vote for a soldier candidate for the office of President. In all human probability, no other candidate for this high office will be taken from the ranks of the Grand Army of the Republic. They will be too far along in years for the severe and exacting strain required in that position. Honors and official distinction in many instances will continue to be given them while they live, but this is the last time the people may reasonably expect to vote for a civil war veteran for the chief magistracy. The first army President was Grant, then Garfield, Hayes and Harrison and the list probably closes with William McKinley.

A REPUBLICAN FEAST.

Thief Works While Family Watch Democratic Parade.

While the Williamsport parade was moving through the streets of Lock Haven Saturday night, the house of John Logue in the upper part of Lock Haven was entered by burglars and nearly $500 in cash, a suit of men's clothes, three gold watches, one silver watch, cuff buttons and other articles were stolen.

The family of Mr. Logue were all down town watching the Williamsporters march and hear the bands play, while the robbers plundered the house.

Entrance was effected through a window. With a hatchet obtained from the woodshed a slat was first knocked out of a window blind. The window sash was then pried up and after that everything apparently went the robbers' way. A door at the foot of the stairway was broken open and a bureau drawer in an up stairs room was also broken. In this drawer was nearly $500 in gold, all in five, ten and twenty dollar pieces. There was also some small change all of which was taken along with the gold. The clothing and three of the watches were taken from a bed-room. A six-shooter revolver was kept in the bureau drawer and it went with the gold.

Mr. Logue and two of his sons had been working at Howard, Centre County, and reached home about 10 o'clock. They were the first to discover that the robbery had been committed.

Active in Luzon.

MANILA, Nov. 6.—Last week was devoted to active scouting. The insurgents having failed to crush a single garrison are now experiencing a reaction.

Lieutenants Wilson and Dority, of the Forty-fifth volunteer infantry, destroyed large stores of rice, four granaries and a barracks near Bato.

Captain Atkinson, with 34 men of the Thirty-seventh volunteer infantry, attacked 190 insurgents under Colonel Valencia, recovering two American prisoners and capturing a considerable quantity of ammunition and supplies.

A native orchestra lured the United States troops from their quarters near Dagupan, while the insurgents attacked rear, killing two Americans and wounding three.

Sunday Senor Buencamino, representing the principal ex-insurgents in Manila, requested Judge Taft to forward to Washington a signed expression of their loyalty.

There is considerable excitement over the pending presidential election with a good deal of betting on the result.

Pilgrims in a Panic.

Montreal, Nov. 6.—Fully a score of people were injured more or less seriously, some of them sustaining broken arms and legs, in a trolley accident which occurred Sunday afternoon on a suburban line four or five miles outside of this city on Cote Des Neiges hill. There was a pilgrimage from the Archbishop's church to Cote Des Neiges cemetery, attended by several thousand people. While a street car loaded to its capacity was ascending the steep Cotes Des Neiges hill the trolley slipped off. The motorman applied the brakes, but the car slid backward slowly. There was a panic among the people inside the car, and they made a rush for the front vestibule. So many crowded in that the motorman was rendered powerless to do anything further. People broke the vestibule windows, the windows of the car and jumped from the rear platform. Fully a score were more or less injured. The car gathering speed dashed into a car following, and that one crashed into another before all were finally brought to a standstill.

Steamship St. Paul Badly Crippled.

New York, Nov. 6.—The American line steamer St. Paul limped into port Monday morning under the port engine, after having incurred the most serious experience of her career. On Oct. 31 the St. Paul struck a supposed submerged wreck, carrying away the starboard propeller, causing the engines to race so fiercely that the shaft broke and all connections snapped. The starboard engines were so severely wrecked that they are useless and it will take 6 months to replace them with a new set. The after outboard shaft tubing was carried away. The ship is leaking considerably. When the accident occurred the cabin passengers were quite excited but they were soon restored to quiet by the prompt report that the steamer was in no danger.

Where Are His Friends?

Charles Westbrook, of Osceola, received a letter recently from Mick Kaminak of Co. M, 41st Regt. U. S. V., Mabalocat, Philippine Islands, giving notice of the death of Private Perry Heeman, from a gun shot wound in the head, September 12, 1900. The deceased's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Heeman, reside somewhere in this section, but the exact address was not known by their son. Any one knowing of the whereabouts of said parents, will kindly inform them of the death of their son.

Fired Five Bullets into His Head.

Graffius E. Rissell, of Williamsport, attempted suicide Friday evening in the United States hotel by shooting himself five times in the head. The report of the shots attracted several men to the room. Rissell was taken to the police station where three balls were extracted from his head. None of the balls had penetrated the skull. It is believed he will recover. No cause is assigned for his deed.

MILLHEIM NEWS.

James G. Lane, of Carlisle, was in town a day or two last week.

E. W. Walker and J. C. Brown of Milton transacted business here one day last week.

C. H. Flinn and W. E. Whitemen of Harrisburg were seen on our streets last week.

John I. Kauffman of Lancaster interviewed the trade here last week.

George Homan made a business trip to Bedford County last week, and is negotiating for 4000 acres of timber land.

N. T. Yocum of Reading was shaking hands with his friends here a day or two ago.

Some of the stores did a large trade on last Saturday, not a large crowd, but what were here were buyers.

What credit or satisfaction the participants in the outrageous conduct of last Friday night will have, if they are found out, remains to be seen—The hanging in effigy of one of our citizens is an outrage, and a great slur to our borough. The law is very severe on persons who commit these acts-The law abiding citizens, condemn the act in very severe terms, but there are some, sorry to say, who think it was all right. The effigy was suspended from the Bell Telephone wires in the diamond, which interfered with its working and the dummy was cut down and burned—Look out. The placards on the figure point, unmistakably, to the animus of the participants.

William Douty, of Logantown registered at the National one day last week.

J. E. Sheibley, of Harrisburg was in town last Saturday.

John Helwick of Milton, a former resident of this borough was in town several days and was greeted by his many friends.

Harry M. Hoy was to Lewistown, and disposed of three car loads of cabbage and potatoes. He is a hustler.

J. F. Harrison, manager of the knitting works, is endeavoring to start a lodge here of the I. O. R. M. and so far is meeting with good success. He needs but a few more names, necessary to getting the charter. Mr. Harrison is a "big ingin", of what tribe we do not know, but he is a hustler.

The election here passed off very quietly, "Soe yader stimme grot we ar vill."

Jesse Wert, who is employed at Clearfield is home on a visit to his family.

Levi Strayer, a veteran of the civil war, of Brush valley was in town this week. He is almost 80 years old, and enjoys good health and moves around like a young man. He is a staunch Republican.

Jefferson and Ammon Swanger, Albert Wetzel and Oscar Wert, who are employed at Glenn Union, are home on a visit to their families and to vote. Also A. Huey who works in Cambria County.

Wildun Scott of Milton registered at the National on Monday.

In consequence of the proper person failing to instruct Constable Leitzell, to make proclamation, that an especial election would be held on the 6th, in regard to bonding the borough in the sum of $10.000, for the erection of water works, no vote was taken on the same. Some are indignant and others, well pleased, who is to blame?

Methodist Bishops.

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 6.—The board of bishops of the Methodist Episcopal church of the United States convention concluded their semi-annual meeting in this city Monday night. The sessions were all held in private, and the only business of public importance transacted was the selecting of the bishops to preside at the different conferences throughout the United States during the next six months. The assignments for the Pennsylvania conferences are as follows:

Central Penn'a conference, Chambersburg, March 13, Bishop Foss.

Philadelphia conference, Stroudsburg, March 20, Bishop Joyce.

Wyoming conference, West Pittston, April 10, Bishop Ninde.

Aguinaldo is Dead.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 4.—James C. Hussey, of National City, has received a letter from James Thompson, a private of Company C, Twenty-seventh United States infantry, written while he was in the hospital at Manila, and dated September 1, in which the writer says that a young Filipino, occupying a bed next to him at the hospital, stated that Aguinaldo was really shot dead as reported some time ago, but it was to be kept quiet for political reasons.

—Experiments have been conducted in New York with electric vehicles for collecting mail from street boxes. It was found that 15 minutes were saved per trip.

SOCIETY LADIES

Use Peruna for Catarrhal Derangements.

Mrs. C. H. Buck, 2923 Douglas street, Omaha, Neb., writes:

"I have used Peruna and can cheerfully recommend it as being the best remedy for catarrh and general debility that I have ever used." Yours gratefully,

Mrs. C. H. Buck.

Peruna is applicable to catarrh of any mucous surface of the body in all stages. From the slightest catarrhal attack or cold to the most chronic or pronounced case of hypertrophic form Peruna is a specific.

Men and women are subject to catarrh. Women are even more subject to catarrh than men. This is due to many causes. The chief cause is the delicacy of her organism, as compared to man. The extreme sensitiveness of the mucous lining of every organ of a woman's body is well known to physicians. This explains why, in part at least, so few women are entirely free from catarrh.

A vast multitude of women have found Peruna an indispensible remedy.

Miss Helen Murphy, a popular society woman of Oshkosh, Wis., is an ardent friend to Peruna. The following is a letter written by Miss Murphy, and gives her opinion of Peruna as a preventive as well as cure for catarrhal ailments:

OSHKOSH, WIS.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"About three months ago I contracted a severe cold at an evening reception, which settled on my lungs and threatened to be very serious. As my mother has used Peruna with good results, she sent for a bottle for me and I found that it gave me blessed relief. Before the second bottle was consumed I was well.

"We keep a bottle of it on hand all the time and when I have been out in inclement weather, I take a dose or two of Peruna and it prevents my taking any cold and keeps me perfectly well." Yours very truly, Helen Murphy.

Miss Lillian Roenheld, a graduate from the Conservatory of Music, Paris, is the violin soloist of the Chicago Germania Club. Miss Roenheld used Peruna as a tonic, when run down by overwork. She speaks of it in the following glowing terms:

CHICAGO, ILL.

The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:

Gentlemen—"I cannot give too great praise to Peruna. Last winter my nervous system became so overtaxed from constant overwork with my violin that my right side seemed partially paralyzed.

"I naturally became very anxious and consulted my physician. After giving me a couple of prescriptions without effect, he advised me to try Peruna, and I am glad to say it effected a speedy and permanent cure.

"Although the past year has been a severe tax on me Peruna has kept me strong and vigorous." Yours truly,

Lillian Roenheld.

The Goulds to Chip in and Pay Count Boni's Debts.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—On the authority of "An intimate friend of the late Jay Gould" the "Evening World" announces that the debts of Count Boni De Castellane will be paid in full by the Goulds at once.

The "scandal attending the claims—amounting to $4,700,000—against the spendthrift husband of Countess Anna is to be stopped," the "Evening World" adds.

A lump sum probably will be contributed by George, Helen, Howard, Edwin and Frank Gould to wipe out these debts, as they consider the honor of the Gould family is involved.

Incidentally, the "Evening World" article says, it was elicited that the Gould millions have nearly doubled since Jay Gould's death and Anna's share is nearly $18,000,000 and her income nearer $1,000,000 than $600,000, as heretofore stated. The total value of the Gold estate is now over $125,000,000.

Rev. J. Ellis Bell Appointed Presiding Elder.

Word was received here this morning announcing that Bishop Foss, the newly appointed presiding bishop of the Central Pennsylvania Methodist Episcopal conference, had just named the Rev. J. Ellis Bell, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church at Chambersburg, as the successor of the late Rev. Martin Luther Smyser as presiding elder of the Altoona district. Rev. Bell is a relative of D. Bates Bell who formerly lived here. This appointment was one eminently fit to be made and the Methodists of the district are to congratulated.

A Record Breaker.

The McKinley administration can show what no other administration in the history of the country has shown, a balance of trade in favor of the United States of nearly two billions of dollars. For the past 4 years, the imports have been $2,927,643,225 and the exports $4,903,685,559. This does not include the net export of silver, which has been some $102,700,000, thus making the total balance over two billions.

WHY IT SUCCEEDS

Because it's for one Thing only, and Bellefonte is Learning this.

Nothing can be good for everything.
Doing one thing well brings success.
Doan's Kidney Pills do one thing only.
They're for sick kidneys.
They cure backache, every kidney ill.
Here is Bellefonte evidence to prove it:

Mrs. J. Cowher of Bishop street, says: "I was very bad with my back and head. I suffered pain, in both and was very restless nights besides being so tired all the time that I could hardly drag myself about. I was very lame across my kidneys and bending over or being on my feet much was extremely painful. Reading about Doan's Kidney Pills and seeing them so highly recommended for these troubles I procured them from F. Potts Green's drug store. They gave me positive relief, caused me to sleep well, stopped the pains, removed the lameness and invigorated me generally.

Another New York Tragedy.

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—Robert Elkins, a shipping clerk, was probably fatally wounded by John Sweet, a salesman. Elkins was in front of the store where he works, engaged in marking a case of goods, when Sweet passed him. Elkins was kneeling at the time. He turned his head without seeing Sweet and spat upon him. Sweet became enraged, and before Elkins could arise to explain drew a revolver and shot him in the neck.

A large number of truck drivers and others who witnessed the affair started in pursuit of Sweet, who ran down the street and, turning, fired a shot at the pursuers, which luckily missed. His flight took him to the Mercer street police station, into which he ran for refuge. He was locked up.

Death in a Coal Mine.

Phillippi, W. Va., Nov. 7.—One of the greatest calamities in the history of Barbour county occurred Saturday at the mines of the Southern Coal and Transportation Co., at Berrysburg, 6 miles from this place. As a result 13 are dead and one is dying.

The explosion, which was caused by dynamite, was so great that mules were killed at the mouth of the mine, and cars were blown 40 feet from the track. One man was blown in two at the loins and his body thrown against a pile of lumber at the mouth of the mine.

There were only 14 men in the mine at the time of the explosion. The 14 men on the repair gang were all white and they were working during the night. The miners were all negroes, and if the explosion had occurred during the day there would have been many lives lost. Three mules and six cars were blown out of the entry tunnel with the 14 men. Some of the bodies were torn to pieces.

An hour after the explosion hundreds had visited the mine. The sight was a most horrible one. Strewed along the main channel and about the opening were the arms, legs, hands and other portions of the bodies of the dead miners. Fathers and mothers were frantically hunting for their sons, and as fast as a body was recovered they would glance at it, and, recognizing it, would give hysterical screams. The hotel was turned into an hospital, and those still alive when brought out were taken there. Two of these have since died—the mine boss and his brother.

John W. Green, who was in the mine at the time of the explosion and escaped injury, gives the following account of it: "I went into the mine at 7:30 and went to room No. 1. I had been at work an hour or so when I smelled black damp. I noticed my lamp would flicker. I went to the mine boss and told him about it. He laughed and said it was all right. I went back to work, and about midnight heard a terrific noise, which knocked me down and put out my lamp. I was stunned for a moment, and then realized what had happened. I was close to the entrance and crawled over the bodies of two men."

Carlists Being Captured.

MADRID, Nov. 5.—An official dispatch announces that the chief of the Carlist band, which had been operating in the Berga district, has taken refuge in France and that the band in the province of Alcante has been dispersed.

Arrests of Carlists, particularly priests, continue throughout the country. The arrest of a vicar of a church in Madrid has led to the discovery of additional compromising documents.

An entire band of Carlists has been captured in the neighborhood of Jaen, capital of the province of the same name, north of Granada.

—"But father," protested a certain young lady particularly interested in the case, "I don't see why you should object to him. He is so sedate and staid." "Well, I don't know much about his ability to see dates," replied her father, "but I do know that he stayed until 2 o'clock this morning."

ACCIDENTS AND CRIMES

A Father's Terrible Crime—A Bridegroom of Forty-eight Hours Killed—Twice Run Over in One Accident.

AN EX-PRESIDENT SERIOUSLY ILL

TO ANSWER CHARGE OF MURDER AT BEDFORD.

BEDFORD, Nov. 6.—Sunday Policeman Stiver, of Bedford, arrived here with Charles Henderson, who was arrested in Washington, D. C., on the charge of murdering Michael McKenzie at Hyndman on the night af October 22. Henderson is the sixth negro arrested for the crime and it is alleged that he fired the fatal shot. The murdered man was employed as a stable boss by a firm of contractors who are making improvements to the Baltimore and Ohio railroad near Hyndman. Henderson is a desperate character and it is said, has killed two men. The case will come up for trial at this month's session of court.

MURDERED HIS CHILD.

HOPEWELL, Pa., Nov. 6.—After a Saturday's debauch in a Hungarian miner's shanty, barricaded by empty beer kegs and one keg of beer on tap inside, at Kearney, three miles east of this place, on Sunday morning, John Krimposky, a Hungarian, becoming indignant at the incessant coughing of his 6-year-old daughter, who was suffering from whooping cough, drew a 38 calibre revolver, saying, "Stop coughing or I will shoot you," drew the trigger and blew the top of the head off the child. The little victim lived for three hours. Krimposky gave as an excuse that he didn't know it was loaded.

Almost instantly the miserable man was surrounded by a mob of his countrymen who threatened to lynch him. He was rescued by several Americans and hurried to this place and after a hearing before Justice of the Peace Haffley, he was taken to the county jail at Bedford by ex-Sheriff Andrew Dodson.

PRESIDENT KRUGER ILL.

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Dispatches from Port Said assert that the Dutch cruiser Gelderland had been obliged to reduce speed considerably, in consequence of the illness of Mr. Kruger. The Gelderland is not expected to reach Marseilles before November 15.

HAD A CLOSE CALL.

ALTOONA, Nov. 6.—Robert McFetridge, of 301 Seventh avenue, narrowly escaped bleeding to death last night. He received an ugly cut on the head and don't know how or where he received it. He was out drinking with some friends and in his statement to the police said that he must have got the blow some place on Eighth avenue between Seventh and Ninth streets. He said he was all right when he left the Belmont hotel, but on reaching Ninth street his companion, a young man named Roy Reese, told him his head was bleeding. He went to a nearby doctor's office and from there to the hospital where an examination showed he had sustained an ugly gash about two inches long on the back of the head and that several blood vessels had been cut. Considerable difficulty was encountered in stopping the flow of blood. Reese went with him to the hospital where he tried to pull McFetridge off the operating table while his head was being dressed. He was arrested and locked up at the police station.

TWICE HURT IN A RUNAWAY.

Hughesville, Nov. 6.—While Mrs. Charles McCarty and little son were driving down Main Street in a buggy the horse, frightened at a passing bicycle, ran away, throwing the occupants of the vehicle out. The wheels of the buggy passed over Mrs. McCarty, and while she was still lying in the street the horse turned and came back again, dragging the buggy over the woman's prostrate form. Her injuries may prove fatal.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

Portland, Me., Nov. 6.—Chas. Davis, aged about 30 years, shot and killed his wife at their home here at noon yesterday and then attempted to take his own life. He has a bullet wound in his head, but may recover.

Davis is a hostler. His wife was about 25 years of age. The tragedy occurred at the home of his wife's mother. Owing to the quarrelsome disposition of Davis, his wife refused to live with him. Monday Davis called where his wife was staying and the couple almost immediately became engaged in an altercation. Mrs. Davis was heard to say: "Let's go up stairs and talk it over."

They went up a dark narrow stairway which leads to the rooms above. Just as they reached the top, without a word of warning, Davis fired three shots, two of which took effect in the side of his wife's head, killing her instantly. He then ran down the stairs and out of the house. He was caught by James Curtis, who had heard the shots. A struggle ensued, during which Davis tried to use his revolver against Curtis, but the pistol was dropped. Davis, breaking loose, seized it, ran into a store and placing the revolver against the side of his head, fired one shot, inflicting a bad wound.

A BRIDEGROOM KILLED.

Huntingdon, Nov. 6.—Dorsey Corbin, aged 22 years, of Juniata township, went hunting for rabbits Saturday with George Davids. They ran a rabbit into a hole and while they were endeavoring to secure the animal the hammer of Corbin's gun caught on a tree and the gun was discharged. Almost the entire charge entered Corbin's body near the heart, and he died in a few minutes. The young man had been married only 48 hours before his death to his cousin, Maude E. Corbin.

ALASKAN CONDITIONS.

Brigadier General Randall Found a Bad Mix-up at Nome.

WASHINGTON, November 5.—Brigadier General George M. Randall, commanding the department of Alaska, under date of September 30, at St. Michael, has submitted his annual report. A great deal of the report is devoted to conditions at Nome which he found upon his arrival at a critical stage. It was difficult to obtain convictions by jury trial in the United States commissioner's court, which emboldened the lawless. Labor organizations prevented men from working for less than $1 an hour and were the cause of much destitution and want, and destruction of property.

Fully 18,000 people arrived at Nome in June. Claim jumping was the order of the day. Nearly every one seemed to think he had a divine right to take possession of a claim or town lot wherever found. Many property owners were disposed to defend their rights by taking the law in their own hands. The arrival of troops prevented blood shed and serious disorder. On the request of the chamber of commerce, the military took charge, thoroughly examined into all complaints, and where the rights of property could be determined, placed it in the possession of the lawful owner. Captain W. A. Bethel, who acted as judge advocate in these cases, is highly praised by General Randall.

The sanitary conditions were placed under the charge of Major Charles E. Ebert, surgeon, who has heretofore reported upon conditions. The energetic efforts of the military improved these conditions during the summer.

There were about 500 men working on the beach at Nome with machinery at one time, and many declined to give answers concerning the prospects for gold, while others admitted that they were taking out only from $4 to $6 a day. The beach was practically worked out last year. The Tundra is believed to be rich but it would require large capital to produce results. There is a large area of country which has not been prospected, where gold can yet be found, but it requires men of experience to develop such a country. General Randall discusses the various points where mining operations have been in progress, most of which have come to the knowledge of the public in reports from Alaska.

He says it has been decided to establish a permanent military posts on the island of St. Michaels. He recommends the purchase of two stern wheel river steamers for operations on the Yukon, and that all coal, forage and building material intended for Alaskan posts be started from Seattle not later than June 15 and shipped in sailing vessels for economy. Also that a cable be laid from Seattle via Juneau and Skagway to Valdez, connecting with the telegraph line now building over the all-American route from Valdez to Fort Egbert and down the Yukon river to Fort Michael. When this lin is completed General Randall says the military headquarters should be in Southern Alaska or at Seattle.

He recommends a life saving station in the vicinity of Nome, as the tales of death by drowning on the shores of Behring sea are appalling, and there is no knowledge of how many lives were lost. He also recommends that light houses with fog whistles be established in Southeast Alaska at the following places: Cape Fox, near the southern boundary of the territory, Cape Commana, entrance from the north into Congas narrows; Five Fingers, in Frederick sound; also a fog signal at Unimak pass. He also recommends a military reservation at Dutch harbor and a coaling station, and thinks that the need may arise at some future time for erecting fortifications at this place.

STATE-BUCKNELL.

Bucknell Forfeited the Game—May Break Off Athletic Relations.

The State—Bucknell foot ball game at Williamsport Saturday was a very unsatisfactory affair all around. It ended in a riot and Bucknell forfeited the game to State when they refused to abide by the decision of the umpire when State worked an old trick.

The result of this is that Saturday's game was probably the last that will ever be played between these two teams. All athletic relations will be broken off between the two colleges. There was quite a large attendance of Bellefonte people who are friends of State and if their wishes are consulted there will never be another such a scene as was enacted last Saturday.

If State is wise she will play the Carlisle Indians next year in place of Bucknell and have the game at the new fair grounds at this place.

The score was 12 to 5 in favor of Bucknell when the first half ended.

SATURDAY'S FOOT BALL.

Bellefonte Academy and Altoona High School's Hotly Contested Game.

The Academy team put up the best game of the season on Saturday in its contest with the heavy eleven from Altoona. The home boys fairly swept the visitors off their feet by their long end runs and steady gains through the line, keeping the ball in Altoona's territory during the entire game. Two unfortunate fumbles just at the scoring point lost at least two touchdowns for the Academy, so that with all their superior playing the score stood 0 0 at the end of the second half. On one occasion in the second half at Altoona's five yard line, the ball was taken from the Academy on an alleged fumble, the spectators and Academy boys protesting hard as they claimed McGee had never lost possession of the ball. It was a very disappointing incident. The crowd however, credited the Academy with the superior playing.

The line men of the home team did beautiful work in both offensive and defensive work and behind the line Cassidy, Henderson, J. M. McGee and Twitmire put up a star game.

The line-up was as follows:

Altoona H. S.	Positions.	Academy
Fluke	right end	Otto
Gosben	right tackle	Babb (Capt
Gracey	right guard	McGee
Dalton	center	Church
Holland	left guard	Greenlee
Wingard (Capt	left end	Hoy
Harnish	quarter-back	Cassidy
Weller	right half-back	McGee
Greer	left half-back	Twitmyer
Kelly	full back	Henderson

ZEB IN A TIGHT FIX.

HAD A KEG OF MOONSHINE IN HIS ARMS WHEN HE MET A BEAR.

What Followed and the Conclusion He Reached When the Trouble Was All Over Are Graphically Told by the Old Possum Hunter Himself.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.]

"I was reckonin to go in with some of the men on a moonshine still," said the old possum hunter, "but the old woman raised sich a fuss about it that I had to give it up. She jest sulked and cried and acted up fur a hull week, and she couldn't sleep nights fur thinkin of them revenew fellers. When they got the still runnin, they wanted somebody to carry the kegs over the mount'in to market, and they coaxed me into the job. It was a trip of fo'teen miles, and, of co'se, it had to be made at night. I dasn't let the old woman know what I was doin, but as I had to hev an excuse to be out I told her I was coon huntin. I'd bin out three or fo' nights when she turns on me and says:

"'How about them coons, Zeb? Yo've bin out every night since Sunday, but yo' hain't dun brung back a coonskin.'

"'Coons is mighty shy this time of year,' says I.

"'Oh, that's it! Coons jest keep right away from yo', do they?'

"'Pears like they do, but I'm hopin to strike a big lot of 'em all to once.'

"'Waal, Zeb White, yo' mind what I tell yo',' says she as she looks straight

"I RUN UP AG'IN SUNTHIN IN THE DARKNESS."

through me. 'Yo' jest keep right on coon huntin, and yo'll find a coon sooner or later, and it'll turn out a mighty bad find fo' yo'.'

"Then I knowed she s'pected what I was up to, but as she didn't say nuthin mo' I didn't. That night when I went over to the still I felt a little skittish. The old woman's words had kind of skeered me. Them revenew fellers was around lookin fur stills, and I was liable to run across 'em in the woods any time. If they ketched me with a keg of moonshine on my shoulder, it meant a year in prison fur me fur suah. When Jim Harper found I was skittish, he says:

"'If it's got to that p'int whar Zeb White, the celebrated b'ar killer and possum hunter of Tennessee, has become afraid of rabbits, then he'd better stay home of nights and play checkers.'

"Then Bill Hope chips in and says it's wonderful that a man who has killed a wildcat with a club should be afraid of woodchucks. The other two men laughed at me and said I was gittin old and feeble, and, of co'se, the talk r'iled me and made me determined to go. It was about 10 o'clock when I slung a keg of moonshine on my shoulders and sot out. It wasn't a cloudy night, but a man wanted the eyes of a cat to foller the paths over the hills and through the bresh. I tried to think it was all right, but the old woman's words kept comin back to me, and I felt my knees grow weak as I scuffed along. I was jest about half way over the hills and had sot down to rest when I heard a b'ar sniffin in the bresh. The noise he made was a sort of sniff-snuff, with a 'woof' at the end of it. That's the way a b'ar allus does when he smells a man at night.

"'Look yere, Zeb White,' says I to myself as that b'ar kept comin nearer, 'if yo' ain't in a scrape then I'll eat my butes. In the darkness and over these hills yo' can't run fur shucks, and how yo' gwine to fight a b'ar barehanded?'

"Yo' bet I wished I had heeded the old woman, but it was too late then. I thought the best way was to git up and go along and give that varmint a cold bluff, but I was tremblin all over as I made forward. I tried to whistle, but my lips was dry as paper. I started to sing, but my own voice skeered me. I was movin along slow and hopin the b'ar would take the bluff when I run up ag'in sunthin in the darkness. I put out my hand and felt the fur of a b'ar, but I hadn't more'n teched him when sunthin hit me 'longside the head, and I went head over heels down hill and into the bushes. It was as if a mule had kicked me on the ear, and I had jest sense 'nuff to wonder how it would feel when the critter begun to tear me to pieces. I heard him snuffin and snuffin and movin around, but he didn't come to me, and bimeby I heard him movin away.

"When I went head over heels, I lost the keg. I didn't stop to look fur it when the b'ar moved off, but I crawled back to the path and started off. I was feelin the thankfulest man in Tennessee, though my head felt as big as a bar'l, when somebody grabbed me and flashed a light in my face. True as you live, I had run ag'in three revenew fellers who was hidin and waitin fur me.

"'Good evenin, Zeb White,' said one of 'em as they made suah it was me.

"'The same,' says I, pullin myself together as hard as I could.

"'Out fur a leetle walk this evenin?'

"'I be.'

"'Nice evenin to walk. Mebbe yo've bin pickin wild flowers? By the way, whar's the keg of moonshine?'

"I jest bluffed 'em right down," said the old man, with a grim smile. "As the keg was gone and they couldn't tech me, I wasn't afraid to talk. They threatened and bulldozed, but I stuck to it that I was hokin fur coons, and they dasn't hold me. Bimeby I started fur home. I was mighty narvus about mo' b'ars, but I got home without seein any. The old woman was sittin up readin the Bible, and she looks up and quietly says:

"'Yo're home ahead of time, Zeb. Is coons skeerce tonight?'

"'Mighty skeerce.'

"'Did yo' see any 'tall?'

"'I jest met one.'

"'I see yo' did, and he fetched yo' that clip on the ear and sent yo' home. I reckoned yo'd meet up with a coon if yo' kept on. Better wash off the blood and rub in some possum's fat.'

"And while I was doin it," said the old man in a whisper, "I heard the old woman gigglin softly to herself and bobbin around in her cheer. I dasn't ax her no questions, bekase I'd made a fool of myself, but do yo' know what I've allus thought? Say, now, but I believe that b'ar in the path was my old woman! Yes, sah, I believe she put on b'arskin we had in the house and sneaked out into the woods to meet me, and when I got close up to her she fetched me a whack with a club. I dun believe it, suh, but as it saved me from them revenew fellers and state's prison I was much obleeged to her and didn't raise no row."

THE SCHEME WORKED.

A Scheme by Which Brown Quieted His Wife's Suspicion.

To be perfectly honest, Brown does not go to his Griswold street office every night that he tells his wife he is going there. The business which he says is pressing is frequently imaginary and the man whom he is going to meet does not exist. He belongs to a club, and clubs have their attractions. He thought that his wife was growing suspicious, and Brown is resourceful.

On the evening in question, as the lawyers would say, he told her that there was a matter of business that could not possibly be deferred until the next day. About 9 o'clock she answered the 'phone and was asked if Brown was at home, and she replied that he was at his office.

"Guess not," was the alarming response. "I was just down there and all looked dark."

She rang off viciously, if women ever do such things, ordered a coupe, told the driver to go as fast as the ordinance allows, kept taking on temper as she went and flew up stairs to the office as though a mouse were in hot pursuit. Her husband met her smilingly, insisted that she had given him a delightful surprise, put his easiest chair near the light, handed her a paper and apologized for having to resume work that would possibly keep him till 3. She could not explain, she could not keep awake, she was ashamed of herself, and after lamely telling him that she had dreamed that he was ill she left.

In ten minutes he was at the club and shook hands with a man who smilingly asked if the scheme worked. He replied that it was as good as ready money for at least 60 days, and then each bought a stack of chips that pass in the night.—Detroit Free Press.

A King's Fear of Woman's Beauty.

Charles XII of Sweden feared only one power in the world, the power of beauty; only a handsome woman could boast of making him quail—she put him to flight. He said: "So many heroes have succumbed to the attractions of a beautiful face! Did not Alexander, my pet, burn a town to please a ridiculous adventuress? I want my life to be free from such weakness; history must not find such a stain upon it."

He was told one day that a young girl had come to sue for justice on behalf of a blind octogenarian father maltreated by soldiers. The first inclination of the king, a strict disciplinarian, was to rush straight to the plaintiff, to hear the details of the misdemeanor for himself, but suddenly stopping he asked, "Is she good looking?" And being assured that she was both very young and unusually lovely, he sent word that she must wear a veil, otherwise he would not listen to her.—Countess Potocka's Memoirs.

The National Emblem.

The Presbyterian Review tells of a Scottish minister who reminded the Lord in a prayer, "For, as thou knowest, men do not gather grapes of thorns nor figs of the national emblem."

"This delicate reference to the thistle as the national emblem of Scotland is delicious," says The Review, "but how it would have surprised the writers of the four gospels!"

Missed.

"It's always dangerous to jump at conclusions," said the careful man. "You're liable to make yourself ridiculous, to say the least."

"That's right," replied the Jersey commuter. "I jumped at the conclusion of a ferryboat once and missed it."—Catholic Standard and Times.

SPOILED THEIR RAID.

THE CADETS HAD A LAUGH AT THE OFFICERS' EXPENSE.

How a Billiard Table Was Smuggled Into the Barracks at West Point and the Story of Its Accidental Discovery.

There are many traditions and stories of escapades at the Military academy at West Point that are handed down from class to class, and one of the most interesting of these is that relating to the billiard table. Shortly after the civil war the cadets, always on the alert for some new scheme for amusement, decided that they would like to have a billiard table and accordingly organized a billiard club. A collection was taken up with which to purchase a table, and a suitable place was sought in which to set it up. Until the present steam heating apparatus was installed in the cadet barracks, about 30 years or more ago, the heating was by means of furnaces. The basement of the sixth division of the barracks was used for coal bins, the bins being so arranged that there was a large one near the center of the building, which could only be reached by passing through one of the others. After considering all available places this coal bin was finally selected as being the place least liable to detection, for it must be remembered the table was unauthorized.

The table was bought in New York and sent to Garrisons, across the river, for there was no West Shore railroad in those days. One cold winter night it was hauled by a team of oxen across the river on the ice and up the hill and was safely stowed away in the coal bin before morning. The table was soon set up and became a source of great enjoyment to the cadets. A keg of beer was always kept on tap, and lamps were hung from the ceiling, giving the room a cheery appearance. The members of the club used to gather there at all hours of the day and night, when their presence was not required elsewhere by their duties, and sit around smoking, drinking and telling stories while two of them played billiards.

The authorities soon became aware that there was a billiard table somewhere in the barracks, for they could hear the balls clicking together, but they could not find it. The cadets continued to enjoy the privileges of the billiard club for more than a year.

Finally one night soon after midnight, as two officers were returning from a convivial evening at the mess, they saw two cadets, clad in their underclothing and dressing gowns, emerge from the north sallyport and disappear down the steps to the areaway in front of the barracks. Instantly the thought of the billiard table flashed through the minds of the two officers, and they started quietly after the cadets. On reaching the basement doorway of the sixth division the two cadets entered, and the officers, arriving a moment later, saw them climb over a pile of coal and enter an open door, through which came sounds of laughter and conversation and the clicking of balls, while the air was laden with fragrant tobacco smoke.

The officers paused for a moment and held a whispered consultation. Finally deciding that they would tell the other officers of their discovery and have all of them come down the following night and enjoy the fun of a raid on the club, they withdrew and went home. Next day all the officers at the post were informed of the discovery, and it was arranged that the raid should occur at midnight.

All might have gone well, and the officers might have had their little fun, had it not been that there were three cadets the previous night instead of two. The third had forgotten his pipe and had gone back for it, while the other two went on and were discovered by the officers. The third, coming along a moment later, saw the officers and quietly followed them, observing all their movements and listening to their whispered conversation.

When they withdrew, he went in and told the members of the club all he had heard and seen. The cadets at once realized that it was all up with the club, but they determined to have a laugh at the expense of the officers. Accordingly all arrangements were made before the club adjourned that night.

The next night the officers met as arranged and crept stealthily down the areaway and into the sixth division. Hearing no sound of clicking balls, some became skeptical and concluded the whole thing was a hoax, but nevertheless they pushed on and climbed over the pile of coal. Opening the door, they were greeted with a glow of light, but still no sound. On entering they found the room deserted, but there were the billiard table, an almost untouched keg of beer, several pounds of tobacco, some chairs and lastly a note on the table, addressed to the officers on duty at West Point. The note was to the effect that as the officers of the post had been so kind as to permit the club to continue its existence for more than a year it desired to present to them (the officers) the table and all its appurtenances, as it was deemed expedient to wind up the club's affairs. The note was signed "The Executive Committee."

The officers, of course, were much chagrined at being thus outwitted by the cadets. Nevertheless the table was removed to the officers' mess and, according to tradition, is the one still in use there.—New York Tribune.

THE LOVE SIGN OF THE ROSE.

She trained a little rose to grow
And grace the gate above,
And hence I love the pathway so
That leads me to her love,
And oft my fears before me goes
To read the love sign of the Rose.

Through fairer bloom for lovers' tryst
To me it seems as fair
As if an angel's lips had kissed
And blessed it blooming there,
For heaven its sweetest smile bestows
On the dear love sign of the Rose.

The pattering of little feet
When shadows blur the light,
And rosy twining arms that meet
And necklace me at night,
These my glad heart enraptured knows
At the dear love sign of the Rose.

Not far away Love's steps shall stray—
In thorny paths to roam,
While o'er the meadows of life's May
Shine signals sweet of home.
When night falls drear, one heart still knows
Rest at the love sign of the Rose.

BEST GAMBLING SYSTEM.

The One That Will Surely Beat Faro and Roulette.

"Every confirmed gambler in the world has spent more or less time trying to figure out some system to beat the game," said a well known northern sporting man. "The commonest and most plausible scheme is the one known as 'progression.' It is simply a doubling of bets until a winning occurs, and theoretically it is perfect, but the trouble is that all gambling games have a limit, and the doubling process increases a wager with such enormous rapidity that it is apt to get over the stipulated amount before the winning takes place.

"I was at Monte Carlo last spring," continued the speaker, "and was surprised at the number of touts who infested the grounds peddling 'sure thing' systems to break the bank. The ludicrous part of it was that most of the peddlers were seedy and poverty stricken in appearance, yet they purported to sell secrets which would infallibly enrich any purchaser. I asked one fellow why he didn't try his system himself and buy a new hat, and he replied very glibly that he was 'working for a syndicate' and under bonds not to play.

"Nearly all of these systems are based on progression and would be impossible in high play owing to the casino limit. Nevertheless I saw a number of small progression players at the tables and was told that they have been a fixture there for many years. They were nearly all horrible looking, bloodless old women, who began with the smallest possible wager and quit when they won 20 francs, or less than $4. A house official informed me that they were tolerated about the place on account of age and infirmity and that their daily winnings were regarded in the light of a pension.

"In the days of open gambling in New Orleans I remember there used to be several broken down sports who were said to make a living off the games by 'progression playing.' I have my doubts about it, however. The best system and the only system that will beat faro and roulette is to stay away."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Read This Before You Write.

Never write poetry until you are at least 30, unless you fall in love, when it will come to you like the measles. You would better begin with stories—that is, if you have a leading idea and can invent situations. Do not attempt the novel until you have passed your fortieth year. A novel requires a knowledge of men and manners, a study of human character, and powers to create dialogue and invent surprises. I know that there have been instances when very young men have written clever poems and novels, but these were freaks of genius which do not often occur. Avoid attempts at humor. That mine has already been worked for more than it is worth, and the best of it seems to be labored. What the funny men do produce is not equal to the unintentional humor which is to be found in congressional speeches on the tariff, and in the old fashioned epitaphs in the country churchyards.—Thomas Dunn English in Success.

Uses of Olive Oil.

Olive oil should be found in every nursery and on every medicine shelf. In time of croup it can be given frequently and will not disturb the digestion, as do many medicines. It is often given in place of cod liver oil and is as effective in building up the system and far less disagreeable. It is recommended by many specialists both as a food and a tonic. A certain young chemist never has a cold or requires any medicine except a spoonful of olive oil every night and morning, which he takes regularly. He seldom wears an overcoat.—New York Tribune.

Peculiar Musical Instrument.

A peculiar musical instrument is used by the Moros. It consists of a hoop of bamboo, upon which are hung by strings a number of thin pieces of mother of pearl. When struck with a small reed, these give forth a sweet, tinkling sound, a combination of which sounds is developed into a weird, monotonous fantasy, very pleasant to the ear—for a short time.

A Fine October.

Indian summer in the Allegheny mountains is the perfection of autumn weather. So far October has been above the average in its pleasant weather, yet it should not occasion surprise. While it is the habit to marvel that October does not come with storm and bluster, the departure from the normal conditions is not greater now than in some years when the other extreme prevailed with cold and rain. The old inhabitant will insist that Indian summer is not due until after a squaw winter, which is quite similar to the sugar snow of spring. The squaw winter comes with a little bluster, two or three inches of snow, freezing enough to harden the slush on the surface of the country roads and to afford the hunter the first tracking snow in the woods. After the squaw winter the Indian summer that comes is delightful. Then the falling leaves have been broken by frost. Through the clear air the sun beats down. Soft hazes begin to dispute with the sharp, clear air of the cooler weather the right for place. The mellowness of autumn is manifest in forest, field and sky. Wild creatures have taken on their winter garments. The crisp nights have invested the hill and valley with an universal tonic, and men move more lively. In the country corn-huskings, applecuts and like affairs attract interest. Real Indian summer is a handmaiden of Paradise.

Possibly October has played us a deceptive trick, and offered a spurious Indian summer. Only some times does real Indian summer come. But should the signs continue as they are, while October has been delightful, November may have in store for Pennsylvania better than this.

PLENTY OF SENSATIONS

They Centre About the Death of Wealthy W. M. Rice.

HIS VALET ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

Before Doing This He is Said to Have Made a Confession Naming Attorney Albert T. Patrick as the Murderer.

THE LATTER MAKES A DENIAL

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The death of the wealthy William Marsh Rice at his Madison avenue apartments on September 23; the attempt of his New York attorney, Albert T. Patrick, to cash checks for large amounts which purported to be signed by the millionaire; the refusal of one bank to cash the checks drawn on it and the discovery by the bank that Mr. Rice was lying dead at the time the checks were presented; the subsequent statement by Patrick that Mr. Rice had made him trustee of his estate, which amounts to anywhere from three to eight millions; the charge of forgery both as regards the checks and the will placed against Patrick and Mr. Rice's valet, Charles Jones; the arrest of Patrick and Jones and their lodgment in jail, have kept New York interested for over a month in what, by the developments of yesterday, promises to become the most celebrated of the many celebrated crimes which the courts of this city have been called on to investigate.

The first incident which led up to yesterday's climax was the fact disclosed Wednesday that Valet Jones had been taken to the district attorney's office and a subsequent rumor that he had made a confession to the authorities. Before the public had time to learn if the report of a confession was true came the more startling news that during the night Jones had, in his cell in the Tombs, attempted suicide by cutting his throat with a pen knife, given him, he says, by Attorney Patrick, also confined in the Tombs, and for the purpose of getting rid of witness to Patrick's alleged crime.

His crime, according to the confession of Jones, parts of which the district attorney's office gave out yesterday, was nothing less than the murder of the millionaire by Attorney Patrick and the purloining of valuable papers relating to the estate. The taking off of Mr. Rice, says Mr. Jones, was done by the internal admission of some poison, supposedly mercury, and the final application of a towel saturated with some anæsthetic, presumably chloroform. That portion of the confession which has to do with the last moments of the old man is now given by the authorities as given by Jones, the scene taking place in the apartments of the millionaire and he lying sick in bed:

Rice said: "I am very nervous, Mr. Patrick. I wish you wouldn't trouble me. Please go away."

Patrick replied: "I have some salts here, Mr. Rice, that will cure your nervousness."

He produced a bottle and uncorked it. The contents smelled to me like some very strong liniment.

Then Patrick said to me. "Get me a towel and a sponge." I got him both.

Then Patrick said: "Jones you have to leave." I left. As I was leaving Patrick said: "I'll remain here until Mr Rice gets some sleep. He closed the door behind me."

I stood in the hall for a few minutes and so I heard Mr. Rice laugh. I thought this was queer, so I pushed open the door. I saw Mr. Rice lying on his back in bed. The towel I had given Patrick was wrapped around the sponge in a cone shape. This cone was lying directly over Mr. Rice's eyes and nose.

Patrick was pressing it down with his right hand. Patrick did not see me and, of course, Mr. Rice could not. After seeing what I had seen I went and lay on my bed.

Mr. Rice grew very sick. Patrick said to me: "Go get a doctor." I went for one. He pronounced Mr. Rice dead.

Attorney Patrick denies the statements in the confession.

Splendid Gift to an Hospital.

MRS. Henry C. McCormick, of Williamsport whose husband is a partner in the banking firm of Jackson, Hastings & Co., and who has many friends in this place, has just donated to the Williamsport hospital a beautiful Nurses Home,

The formal opening of the home took place Thursday evening in the presence of hundreds of friends of the institution. The event was preceded by the sixth annual commencement exercises of the nurses of the hospital, which was held in Association Hall, Williamsport.

The class was composed of five young ladies, Misses, M. Allie Pennington, of Fairmount Springs; Mary Williams, of Lamar, Minnie C. Triebley, of Shamokin; Carrie C. Frain, and Myrta Neyhart, of Williamsport. An address to the graduates was made by Dr. Hobart A. Hare, professor of therapeutics at Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. Immediately after the conclusion of the commencement exercises a public reception was held at the Nurses' Home and the formal opening of the building took place. The visitors were received by a committee of the ladies' auxiliary, and were accorded the privilege of inspecting the home, which has been completely and handsomely furnished by the donor. Mrs. McCormick herself presented the building to the board of managers of the hospital.

The Nurses' Home, erected and furnished by Mrs. McCormick, is a model of neatness and home comfort. The structure is built after the Elizabethan style of architecture. The entire length of the building on the first floor, fronting on Louisa Street, is taken up by the sitting-room. It is furnished with couches, oak tables, desks and chairs, large mats and everything calculated to add to its comfort. To the right of the large entrance to the hall, on the west side, is a little reception-room, fitted up with wicker furniture.

In the corridor, near the side entrance, has been placed a bronze tablet bearing this inscription:

"To the nurses of the Williamsport hospital, present and to come; that you may enjoy this home as much as I enjoy the giving of it, is the best wish I can express. Lovingly, your friend, Ida Hayes McCormick."

Mexico and Porfirio Diaz.

From Chambers's Journal.

Until 1820 the fate of Mexico and its inhabitants was the same as Spain has dealt out to all her colonies; they were oppressed, robbed, murdered, and trodden under foot by a long succession of infamous and heartless rulers, whose only creed was their own enrichment, who feared neither God nor man, and whose systematic course of torture and death seems to have been as necessary to them as their daily food. In 1820, however, Mexico aroused herself and threw off the Spanish yoke; Since then she has made but slow progress, for the majority of her rulers have unfortunately been men who possessed neither education nor those high and noble principles of honor and integrity which alone lead a nation into a progressive, enlightened and civilized condition.

Happily, Mexico has at present an energetic, liberal-minded and progressive president—Porfirio Diaz, who was only recently re-elected for another term. The president had occupied the same high office for eight years, and perhaps it is not too much to say that the republic has had more real, substantial progress under his wise rule than has been made during any other period since 1820.

House Was Filled.

In speaking of Howe's Moving Pictures which appear here this evening, Nov. 8, the Amsterdam, N. Y., Daily Democrat says:

An audience which filled every part of the opera house Friday evening enjoyed the annual visit to this city of Lyman H. Howe's wonderful animatiscope. Mr. Howe has been coming to this city for several seasons, and has always exhibited his motion pictures to large crowds, but the audience Friday evening greatly surpassed those of previous years. The pictures were not only new, but were considerably larger, and, as is usually the case with the Howe entertainments, gave genuine satisfaction. Many stirring views of the war in the Transvaal and in China were displayed, as well as scenes from the Paris exposition, which, together with a number of humorous views, made up an exhibition worthy in every way of the house full of delighted spectators.

New York's Last Horror.

NEW YORK, November 4.—All the efforts of the authorities are now directed to clearing away the ruins of the Tarrant and other buildings wrecked in the great explosion of Monday in the desire to find out how many bodies are buried in them and to ascertain what was the cause of the explosion. The efforts of the searchers for the dead were rewarded last evening by the finding of the remains of H. C. A. Schmidt, of 550 Clinton street, Brooklyn, and the discovery of what looks like the bodies of three other people. Schmidt was an engineer and has an office on the third floor of 101 Warren street. The body could be seen pinned down under a mass of twisted iron, but could not be gotten at last night. The identification was made by a nephew of Schmidt.

At the northwest corner of the Tarrant building at Warren and Greenwich streets a mass of clothing and indiscriminate articles was discovered and the mass was said to be the bodies of three people. The firemen went to work with a will to dig out the mass and at 10 o'clock last night brought to light a portion of a woman's foot and the top of a crushed skull. The skull had brown hair attached and is supposedly that of a woman.

During the day Superintendent Dooner had a very large force of men working as hard as possible tearing down piles of debris and removing it. The fire burned all day and toward night was practically to the end of mass of debris at Washington and Warren streets. The fire extends back for some distance and is burning fiercely.

There were no new workmen at work last night. Superintendent Dooner was using the same force that he had all day but will get a largely increased force today. The reason assigned for having no new men is that the ruins are so hot that few can get at them yet.

There has been found to be much difficulty in getting contractors' carts into Warren and Greenwich streets. What space is not used by fire engines is nearly all taken up with piles of debris and only one cart can back in at a time, thus allowing only one load to be removed. At the Washington end entrance more carts can be utilized and the work is progressing very much more rapidly.

A revised list made up to 10 o'clock last night shows thirty-four persons still missing.

At 10:30 o'clock a portion of a human trunk, probably the abdomen, was dug out and a little later a brown canvas coat. There was nothing in the pockets but four quill toothpicks. Still later the firemen found another portion of a skull and a portion of a human back. Dr. Comer, of the health department, who examined the remains, said they were all from the same persons, as were the foot and a portion of a skull found earlier.

The remains were all found in the Tarrant building.

Just before midnight a workman found a black cheviot coat in the exact spot where the human remains had been found. In the pockets were found four cents and an application for membership in the West End Republican club.

Shortly afterward, in the same place an entirely unrecognizable mass of human flesh was found. A half coat was also found at this place.

The laborers stopped work at midnight and a new gang was started.

Literary Men in Public Life.

The United States Senate contains 58 lawyers; it contains no real literary man. It numbers only two newspaper men. In the House of Representatives there are 230 lawyers, but no real literary man. It numbers 11 newspaper men. A glance at the list of candidates in the present electioneering campaign for the new House of Commons will show an immense difference on this score. The overproduction which our Congress gives to law is to some extent given there to letters. Dr. Conan Doyle, who had varied his novel-writing by a splendid campaign against the enteric epidemic at Bloemfontein, is to stand. So is Mr. Gilbert Parker and Mr. Anthony Hope Hawkins, who was also a candidate eight years ago. These are all men whose mark in letters has been made deep.

This is no new condition in England. Thackeray stood for Oxford in the first bloom of his reputation. Disraeli had won fame as a novelist before he made his first reported speech in the House. Bulwer-Lytton wrote "Pelham" three years before he entered Parliament. Our own houses of Congress have not such a record to show. American letters is as yet young. Over and above this, however, there is a feeling in this country (whether fortunate or to be regretted) that the literary man is not so truly a representative of the people as is one of almost any other of the polite professions.

THE UNTOLD.

Why Mrs. Cavil Failed to Be Informed by Her Husband.

"I didn't tell you, did I, Mildred," said Mr. Cavil to his wife, "that I saw your sister Jane down town this day week?"

"No, you didn't, Charles Augustus Cavil," replied Mrs. Cavil. "Why didn't you?"

"Well, you see"—

"Yes, I see. You meet the only sister I have in the world, and instead of coming straight home and telling me about it the same day, as any respectable husband would have done, you keep the matter secret a whole week and then ask carelessly if you have mentioned the fact that you saw her."

"But, my dear"—

"Don't but me, Charles Augustus Cavil. I have no doubt that she sent me a message by you, and you not only failed to deliver it, but by this time you have forgotten what it was about. Tell me if this isn't the case."

"My dear, it was this way"—

"Don't tell me it was that way, Charles Augustus Cavil. I know exactly how it was. You simply didn't care a straw whether I knew that you had seen Sister Jane or not or you would not have waited a whole week to tell me you had seen her."

"But I didn't say I saw her," Mr. Cavil said at length.

"Then I'd like to know what you did say, Charles Augustus Cavil."

"I asked you if I told you that I saw her," explained Mr. Cavil.

"Well, why didn't you tell me?"

"The reason I didn't tell you was because I didn't see her; that's all."

Mrs. Cavil gasped and was speechless.—Boston Bazar.

A Trick of Indian Thieves.

In some of the thieves' schools in India a regular course of training is gone through in the art of "pouching," or concealing articles of value in the throat. The Englishman, a newspaper published in Calcutta, thus describes the process:

"At first a small piece of lead, attached to a thread, is swallowed and guided by the action of the tongue to the orifice of the sac in the throat. As soon as this has been thoroughly learned the lead is coated with lime. This eats into the sac and enlarges it. The size of the article to be pouched is gradually increased until it is said that many of the Indian thieves can pouch 8 or 10 rupees at once."—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Casting Metals.

As is well known, some metals are unsuitable for casting, while others, like iron, can readily be cast in any desired shape. The property of casting well is said to depend upon whether the metal contracts or expands on solidifying from the liquid form. Iron, like water, expands in solidifying, and hence the solid metal may be seen floating in the liquid iron about it. The expansion causes it to fill the die into which it is poured, and so it can be cast easily. Gold and silver contract in cooling and therefore are not suitable for casting.

As to Strikes.

"What's the matter with that man?" asked the clock. "He doesn't seem to have anything to do but wind me up."

"No," replied the calendar; "he isn't working. He and his companions struck some time ago."

"Huh! Suppose I should stop working every time I struck?"

"That's so, but I notice it freshens me up every time he takes a month off."—Philadelphia Press.

The Magic Lantern.

How many of us while using magic lanterns have wondered how they were first made? Indeed they are of very respectable antiquity. As early as the seventeenth century a Jesuit named Kircher constructed one. It was a very crude affair, and as he was not unwilling to excite the fears of the persons who witnessed his exhibitions he called it a "magic" lantern, and so it has always been called.

There are reasons to believe that the lantern was in use even earlier than the seventeenth century and that the mysterious figures which the old astrologers produced in the smoke of their mystic fires were produced in the same way as Kircher produced his, the smoke hiding the lantern.

It Told the Truth.

A countryman on a visit to Glasgow, while walking along Argyle street reading the signboards and the tickets in the shop windows, said to his companion: "Hoo can a' thae ham shops be the best and cheapest? Every yin o' them says that, and the same wi' the clothes shops tae. They are jist a lot o' leears."

They continued along the street until, coming opposite a plumber's shop with a big bill in the window with the words "Cast Iron Sinks" printed in large letters on it, he exclaimed: "Well, Jock, here's yin that tells the truth at ony rate. But any daaged fool kens that cast iron wad sink."

A Serious Accident.

Thursday afternoon about 2 o'clock Mrs. Mechtley, a widow living on Bishop street, over Ammerman's store room, started down the cellar stairs with a lamp in her hand, and tripping, fell the entire length of the stairs. When picked up and carried to her room it was found that her right shoulder had been dislocated. Dr. Herris was called and after some difficulty pulled the arm in place. She came here from Hanover and her daughters work in the match factory.

Crouching

In every cough there lurks, like a crouching tiger, the probabilities of consumption. The throat and lungs become rough and inflamed from coughing and the germs of consumption find an easy entrance. Take no chances with the dangerous foe. For 60 years there has been a perfect cure. What a record! Sixty years of cures.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

soothes and heals the wounded throat and lungs. You escape an attack of consumption with all its terrible suffering and uncertain results.

There is nothing so bad for the throat and lungs as coughing.

A 25c. bottle will cure an ordinary cough; harder coughs will need a 50c. size; the dollar bottle is cheapest in the long run.

"One of my sons was spitting blood with a high fever and was very ill. We could hardly see any signs of life in him. The doctors did him no good. But one bottle of your Cherry Pectoral cured him and saved his life." C. G. ANDERSON, Nov. 10, 1898. Pukwana, S. Dak.

MRS. SARAH E. SNOOK.

Died at Her Home in this Place Friday Morning at 3:05 O'clock.

Mrs. Sarah E. Snook, who resided with her daughters on south Allegheny street, died Friday morning at five minutes past three of diabetis. She had been an invalid for the past year and a half.

Deceased was the daughter of George Achenbach, a highly respected citizen of Loganton, Pa., and was born at that place March 30, 1841, making her age just 59 years, 7 months and 3 days. She was married to S. B. Snook, of Lock Haven, who preceded her to the grave 18 years ago.

Three children mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, they are W. P. Snook, of Muncy, and Misses Erma and Vara, of Bellefonte.

Four sisters and three brothers also survive. They are Mrs. John Brosius, of Rauchtown; Mrs. Geo. Brill, of Philadelphia; Mrs. J. P. Sheetz, of Williamsport; Mrs. J. V. Miller, Johnstown; B. C. Achenbach, of Lock Haven; Ambrose Achenbach, of Holton, Kan., and Hiram Achenbach, of Topeka, Kan.

Deceased was a conscientious christian lady and a member of St. John's Episcopal church of this place.

The remains were taken to Muncy, Pa., Monday morning for interment.

Sudden Death from Apoplexy.

Wm. Hunter, died suddenly at his home near Vail at 9:10 o'clock Wednesday evening. He had been stricken with the illness which resulted fatally, only about two hours before, Apoplexy was the cause of death.

The deceased was born at Plum Forge, Centre county, July 19, 1830, and at his death was aged 70 years, 3 months and 12 days. Most of his boyhood was spent on the present site of Tyrone where his father was engaged in farming. Since his marriage to Elizabeth Denny, or for about 45 years past, he had lived in the vicinity of Vail. By occupation he was a farmer and teamster. In Snyder township he had filled the office of supervisor, and he was serving a second time as school director at the time of his demise. In politics he was a stalwart Republican.

Mr. Hunter served during the Civil War in two commands, from July 4 to Aug. 18, 1863, in Company E, Forty-sixth Pennsylvania Infantry; and from August 30, 1864, to June 1, 1865, in Company C, Two Hundred and eighth Pennsylvania Infantry.

Surviving him are his wife, one son and 5 daughters.

Weary Willie Put to Work.

Burgess Blanchard has taken a decided stand against tramps who visit our borough and is determined to enforce the ordinance against them. Friday morning the passers down High street saw a strange man hard at work sweeping the High street bridge under the watchful eye of Street Commissioner Thomas Shaughensy. It proved to be a weary Willie who had been so unfortunate as to be nabbed within the boro limits and being unable to pay the fine imposed he was working it out. This is a wise move on the part of the Burgess and if he sticks to it the tramps will give Bellefonte a wide berth in the future.

—It is rumored that Millheim is to have novelty works in the near future, of such capacity as to employ quite a number of men. This project should receive the encouragement of all enterprising citizens.

The balance was distributed as follows, says the "New York Sun": City Detention hospital, $1,000, for the contagious disease ward, Christ's hospital, $1,000; Washburn college, $600; Topeka Young Men's Christian Association, $500; for a public drinking fountain, $400; Kindergarten Association, $100; Young Women's Christian Association, $150; Women's Christian Temperance Union, $100; Ingleside Home, $200; State Temperance Union, $100; Anti-Cigarette League, $50.

—Rev. W. P. Shriner, returned Monday from Moshannon, where he spent the Sabbath assisting in the reopening services of the M. E. Church, of which Rev. T. S. Faus is pastor. Rev. Shriner, preached at the morning, afternoon and night services, and his sermons are said to have been masterly discourses. He also superintended the raising of the indebtedness, amounting to $200, which was secured without much difficulty. The indebtedness last March amounted to $808, but up to the reopening $608 of this sum had been provided for. The services Sunday throughout were of a very inspiring character.

BLACKBURN-HOLLIDAY.

Yellow and White Wedding Celebrated Last Night.

MANY GUESTS IN ATTENDANCE

At the Marriage of Miss Myra Holliday to Dr. Albert Engles Blackburn of Philadelphia.

IT WAS A BRILLIANT AFFAIR.

One of the prettiest and most important social events of the season in Bellefonte was the wedding Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock of Miss Myra Holliday, the stepdaughter of Col. Jackson L. Spangler, of this place, to Dr. Albert Engles Blackburn, a young physician of Philadelphia. The event took place in the beautiful Presbyterian church which was handsomely decorated for the occasion with palms, potted plants, ferns, and chrysanthemums. When the hour for the ceremony arrived the church was crowded to the doors with a brilliant assemblage of guests gathered not only from Bellefonte but from all over the state. It was a white and yellow wedding, the predominating decorations being of those colors.

Promptly at the appointed hour the bridal party entered the church to the music of Lohengrin's wedding march as played by Mrs. J. Malcolm Laurie, the bridesmaids entering at either side of the chancel and marching down the side aisles meeting the bride at the entrance. The bridal party then proceeded up the middle aisle in the following order: first came the ushers, Dr. John B. Stetson, Dr. R. P. McReynolds, Messrs. Harry F. Richards, William B. Chapin, Joseph H. Reilly, Philadelphia; and Dr. H. A. Polkinhorn, of Washington, D. C., then came the bridesmaids, Miss Henrietta K. Butts, Miss Mildred F. Smith and Miss Margaret Brisben, of Bellefonte; Miss Julia A. Kaul, of St. Marys; Miss M. Virginia Sudler of Philadelphia; Miss Romelia VanPelt of Centre Hall. The maid of honor, Miss Emma Holliday, a sister of the bride, came next, then followed the bride leaning on the arm of her stepfather, Col. J. L. Spangler. At the altar they were met by the groom, Dr. Albert Engles Blackburn, of Philadelphia, attended by his best man, Mr. Charles S. Moore, of Camden, New Jersey.

The party formed a semi-circle at the altar and the pastor of the church, Rev. William Laurie, D. D. LL. D., performed the nuptial ceremony. As the wedding party were entering and approaching the altar a pleasing feature was the singing of a solo "Hail to the bride" from Lohengrin's wedding march by Miss Lillie Coyle Hench, of Harrisburg.

The bride was gowned in white Duchess satin trimmed with real lace and long bridal veil. She wore a brilliant diamond ornament the gift of the groom, and carried white roses with a shower bouquet of lillies of the valley.

The maid of honor was attired in white chiffon over white taffeta and carried a boquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids wore white Paris muslin trimmed with valenciennes lace and yellow panne velvet. They carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums tied with yellow ribbons.

Mrs. Spangler, mother of the bride wore a dress of lavender liberty satin trimmed with cream applique. Mrs. Blackburn, mother of the groom, wore black silk trimmed in white lace.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the Spangler home, on north Allegheny street, which was attended by several hundred guests. The house was handsomely decorated the colors being white and yellow. The bride received in her wedding gown. At the conclusion of the reception refreshments were served on the broad porches which had been enclosed for that purpose. The caterer was Joseph Ceader, of Bellefonte, and the music for the reception and dance which followed was furnished by Lettan & Chappel orchestra of Williamsport. The brides favors to the bridesmaids were gold crescents, and the grooms favors to the ushers were gold cuff links with their respective monograms thereon.

At 10:30 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Blackburn departed on a special train on an extended wedding tour, after which they will be at home to their friends at 3726 Baring street.

The bride is one of Bellefonte's most charming young ladies and very popular in society on account of her beauty and winning ways. She was educated at Wilson college, Chambersburg, and also took a two years course at the Penna. State College.

The groom is a rising young physician of the Quaker city. He graduated from Swarthmore college and later took a course in the Medico-Chirurgical college of Philadelphia. The wedding took place on the 37th anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller, of Swarthmore, particular friends of the groom.

The presents received form a large and valuable collection. There were over 400 in all and include everything imaginable in silverware, cut glass, china, bronze, pewter, marble, pictures, chairs, Persian rugs etc. Several checks for large amounts were also received.

Among the guests present from a distance were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Blackburn, Fishertown, Pa.; Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Blackburn, Altoona; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller, Miss Sarah E. Benkin, Swarthmore; Mrs. Eleanor Damon, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCormick, Miss May Kelly, Philadelphia; Mrs. Andrew J. Kaul, Miss Josephine Kaul, St. Marys; Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Spangler, of Hastings; Miss Mame McClain, Thomas McClain, of Spangler, Pa.; Gen. and Mrs. H. C. McCormick, Miss Nellie McCormick, Mrs. George Painter, Williamsport; Dr. R. S. Shires, of Rothermel, Pa.; W. F. Wentz, Col. and Mrs. Jas. H. Lambert, Philadelphia.

ANDREW BROCKERHOFF

Died Suddenly of Heart Trouble at Philadelphia Sunday.

Andrew Brockerhoff, who Bellefonte is proud to claim as one of her own citizens although for several years past business has compelled him to reside with his family at Reading, died very suddenly Sunday at 12:30 o'clock at Philadelphia, from heart trouble. The announcement of his death, which reached here Sunday afternoon about 5 o'clock, was a sudden and severe shock not only to the community at large but to the Brockerhoff family who were completely unprepared for such sad tidings. The last time he was in Bellefonte he was stout and strong and looked to be the very picture of health. At the time of his death he was on a business trip to Philadelphia, and his wife and children did not accompany him but were at their home at Reading. All the particulars of his death that the family here have learned as yet are that it occurred at the home of his mother-in law, Mrs. N. K. Dare, and that Dr. Curtin, of Philadelphia, was in attendance at his bedside when he passed away.

Andrew Brockerhoff was the eldest son of the late Henry Brockerhoff, and was born in the Brockerhoff homestead, corner of Spring and Bishop streets, Bellefonte, April 4th, 1852, making his age just 48 years and 7 months. His early education was received in the schools of Bellefonte, and later he graduated with honors from Mount St. Mary's College, Emmetsburg, Md.

He inherited the business ability and shrewdness of his father, who was one of the town's most progressive men, and on entering manhood at once took up business pursuits not only here but in other parts of the State. In all these affairs he was very successful. For several years past he has resided in Reading where he was interested in the asphalt paving business. He was also a member of the Elk River Coal & Land Company, of West Virginia.

He was a member of St. John's Catholic church of this place and was an earnest and sincere christian gentleman.

He was a member of the Royal Arcanum and the Independent Order of Heptaspohs.

He was married to Miss Jennie A. Dare, daughter of Mrs. N. K. Dare of Philadelphia, who survives him with their two children Henry and Margaret.

Two brothers and one sister also survive. They are Dr. Joseph Brockerhoff, Henry Brockerhoff and Miss Mary Brockerhoff, all of Bellefonte.

The remains arrived in Bellefonte last evening at 8:30 and the funeral will take place Friday morning.

BIG PARADE SATURDAY NIGHT.

Employees of A. G. Morris Arrange for a Big Demonstration in Honor of McKinley's Election.

The employes of A. G. Morris' lime quarries in this vicinity are arranging to hold a monster parade next Saturday evening in honor of the election of McKinley. There will be several bands of music, fire works etc. The employees of other industrial establishments and any other organizations which desire to do so are invited to join in the parade and celebration and are requested to communicate at once with Robert Morris.

The details are not all arranged yet but the plans are being perfected and a grand demonstration is assured.
